

GOTHAM SPEEDS 'BUG' CAMPAIGN

Three of Five Killings Laid to Policy Game as Jury Meets.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—Swift steps to stamp out lucrative policy and gambling rackets and vice in New York city were taken by authorities today, following a sanguinary 24 hours in which five men were slain.

With the policy racket, which has an annual "take" in the millions, as the focal point of its investigation, the March New York county grand jury was sworn in.

The bloody week-end caused District Attorney William C. Dodge to remark that it would be "just too bad" if the inquiry into gambling and vice rackets develops into "another Becker episode."

At least three of the men were slain, police believe, in a frantic underworld drive to remove persons who might be able to submit incriminating evidence to the grand jury.

Dodge, in his comment on the "Becker episode," referred to the conviction of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of the gambler, Rosenthal, some years ago.

As the grand jury began deliberations, agents of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, responsible in part for the probe, led a raid on a restaurant four blocks from police headquarters on Canal street.

One man was arrested and accused of selling a policy slip. The agents said he had other slips in his pocket.

Lee Thompson Smith, who served as foreman of the grand jury investigating the parole system from May, 1934, until January 31, 1935, was selected foreman for the March grand jury.

37-Year-Old Mother Of 20 Children Dies

HALIFAX, March 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Veronica Birney, mother of 20 children, died here today in her 38th year. Married when only 15 years old, she had eight children by her first husband and 12 by her second. Only nine survive.

VOTE TAKEN HERE BY AUTO WORKERS

Result of Balloting on Strike by Atlanta Local
Not Announced.

Members of Atlanta Local 15,488 of the United Automobile Workers, the group affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, Monday night balloted in secret on whether or not they favor a nation-wide strike in event the industry does not accept the contract they desire. These men are employees of the local Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants.

The vote was taken at a meeting held in Fulton County High school, with C. H. Gillman, president of the local union, presiding. He explained that no result of the balloting would be announced here, but the tabulation will be sent to Detroit and that President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, will take the result of the nation-wide voting with him when he confers with President Alfred P. Sloan, of General Motors Corporation, in regard to the new contract the workers wish signed.

Also on Monday it was announced by the automobile labor board in Detroit that an election for representatives of employees at the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in Atlanta will be held in the near future. This election is to be conducted in conformity with rules laid down by the auto labor board and in the same manner similar elections have been held in other plants.

It is believed that this pending election will settle differences between representatives of the employees and executives of Chevrolet in Atlanta. Union officials have charged that the company has refused to permit free election of representatives to the bargaining agency of the workers and this decision of the auto labor board, to conduct the election itself without any contact with the company or its representatives, will answer this objection.

Some of the outstanding acts in Bob Morton's circus are the trained dogs and horses. Eight horses, each with a number on its back ranging from one to eight, are shuffled in the ring. At a crack from the ring master's whip they immediately find their places in numerical order, with almost human intelligence.

Others that deserve special mention are the clowns, the trapeze performers and a trained camel, reputed to be the only one in America.

The circus was opened with a Shriners' parade led by Hiram R. Romans, potentate of the Atlanta lodge.

There will be performances of the circus each evening through Saturday at 8 o'clock, and matinee Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons beginning at 2:30 o'clock. One performance of the show is to be opened to the orphans of the city and to poor children who would not otherwise be able to see it.

Bob Morton's circus was last here in 1930. He travels the country during the winter months when the big tents are in winter quarters, bringing joy to the hearts of thousands of youngsters, and grownups, too.

He has appeared for numerous Shrine organizations throughout the country, and although the circus makes other appearances, it is largely through Mr. Morton's association with the Shrine organizations that he has achieved his reputation.

From Newman, where he is holding court, Judge Wyatt said there had been some cases of "forceful intimidation" at LaGrange, that local officers are "entirely outnumbered" and it appeared that troops were necessary.

No disorders were reported at Millstead, where some workers also were on strike at a Callaway mill.

Governor Talmadge said he was "making a further study of the situation" before deciding whether troops would be sent. He used troops to quell disorders and to rout "flying squadrons" of textile workers who were shutting down mills over the state during the widespread textile strikes last fall. He also sent troops to Rossville recently to maintain peace in a hosiery mill strike there.

He has often said: "The right to work must, and will be, protected in Georgia."

There was speculation that if the governor sent troops either to Manchester or LaGrange, that he would make no announcement of it until they were on the scene.

Judge Wyatt's telegram to the governor: "With reference to strike situation in the Callaway mills at LaGrange: The situation appears to be that a large number of the operatives want to work. The strikers have this morning adopted the policy of congregating at the gates in such numbers and so close together that it is difficult for a person to get through in order to get into the mills. Some of the laborers among the strikers have stated that their orders are to prevent people from going to work at the mills. The strikers are yelling at those forcing their way through. There are some cases of more forceful intimidation. With the number of mills involved, the officers are entirely outnumbered. It appears that should the small number of peace officers attempt to move those congregated at the gates there would be serious trouble. I do not believe the local officers can handle the situation and unless something is done the mills cannot, in my opinion, operate and those who want to work will be denied that privilege. I believe troops are necessary and therefore request that they be sent to LaGrange."

Manchester Situation.

The telegram regarding the Manchester situation reads:

Strike situation at Manchester is out of control. Only about 30 per cent of 700 workers on strike. Seventy per cent want to work. Many were turned back at gate this morning by intimidating crowd of strikers.

We have full force of police and deputy sheriffs on job, but find they are unable to cope with situation. While mill is operating partially now, if continuous violence will occur, which we cannot prevent or control. We request that you send national guard immediately.

Says Employees Afraid.

Mayor R. S. O'Neal, of LaGrange, said tonight he believed 75 per cent of the employees of the Callaway mills here wanted to work, but that some were being frightened off by the other 25 per cent.

S. A. Hollihan, labor leader, said he hoped Governor Talmadge would not send troops here, "since it would be unfair to labor. We've been conducting a peaceful strike." Hollihan said less than 800 of the Callaway mills' 3,000 employees here went to work on the first shift and 221 on the afternoon shift. Three of the Callaway mills here do not operate afternoons shifts.

J. Ralph Gay, of Macon, one of the leaders of the textile strike there last fall, arrived here today and spoke to a closed meeting of strikers.

Mayor O'Neal said that he, Sheriff Brady and Grady Webb, chairman of

TROOPS IN STRIKE AREA
ASKED BY 1,000 WORKERS
Associated Press Staff Writer.

LAGRANGE, Ga., March 4.—(AP)—Textile mill workers who want to stay on the job and public officials who feared violence in a mill strike today joined in asking Governor Eugene Talmadge to send national guardsmen to LaGrange and Manchester.

The workers' petition, bearing names of 1,000 workers in seven local plants of the Callaway group of mills and a telegram urging troops be sent to Manchester, were taken under advisement by the governor at his office in Atlanta.

A plea for troops came from Manchester after a strike leader there, W. L. Stroup, reported he was abducted from his home by several masked men, taken to a peach orchard several miles away, and beaten. He said he was told:

"We want to stop you from making speeches to mill workers."

One Group Affected.

The strike so far has affected only the Callaway mills, which have seven plants here, one at Manchester and one at Millstead. Strikers say they are protesting a wage cut and initiation of a speed-up system of work.

The mill management in a telegram to Secretary of Labor Perkins yesterday offered to do away with the newly installed work system and to pay a scale of wages no higher than NRA code requirements, to be determined by proper labor authority in Washington. The proposal was referred to the textile labor relations board in Washington for study.

The mill management said it was now paying wages 8 per cent higher than the code requirements.

A statement of the mill offices today said 55.9 per cent of the workers in LaGrange plants of the company were on the job, but labor leaders said that only about 15 to 20 per cent were at work.

The mill normally employs about 3,000.

The petition of the local Callaway employees was directed to Judge Lee B. Wyatt, of superior court; Sheriff R. N. Brady, of Troup county, and to Mayor R. S. O'Neal, of LaGrange.

It said that "local authorities have been unable to give us ample protection and we were exposed to threats, danger and intimidation" in entering the mills to go to work.

Sheriff C. H. Collier, of Meriwether county, where President Franklin D. Roosevelt built his vacation residence, and I. H. Davis, chairman of the city commission in Manchester, which is in Meriwether county, telegraphed the governor that the strike situation there was "out of control."

"Only about 30 per cent of 700 workers on strike. Seventy per cent want to work. Many were turned back at gate this morning by intimidating crowd of strikers. We have full force of police and deputy sheriffs on job, but find they are unable to cope with situation. While mill is operating partially now, if continuous violence will occur, which we cannot prevent or control. We request that you send national guard immediately," said the message regarding Manchester.

Venizelos' old political colleague, General Kostas Giannoulas, who once governed Greece for a day by a coup d'etat, was reported to have left Canea, France, and to have crossed Italy on his way to join the revolutionists.

The Troup county board of commissioners had signed an appeal to Governor Talmadge to send troops here.

O'Neal said he had been informed by more than 100 police, deputy sheriffs and special officers here that local forces were inadequate to handle the situation. He said there had been threats of "night riders" and bombings of workers' homes, but that so far there had been only minor disorders.

SINGAPORE, March 4.—(P)—Severe censorship went into force today in Siam following the decision of King Prajadhipok to abdicate the throne, and no news has been received here from Bangkok since the announcement that the abdication had been received and accepted.

Telephonic communications with the Siamese capital was interrupted this morning. It was not felt, however, that there was any cause for alarm in the situation at Bangkok.

11-YEAR-OLD NEPHEW NOT TO LEAVE SCHOOL

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, March 4.—(P)—The 11-year-old schoolboy who may soon be the king of Siam, little Prince Ananda, nephew of the abdicated King Prajadhipok, went to school today under the discreet guard of a Swiss detective.

His mother, Princess Sanjika Mahadai, has named him under the name of Ananda, which means "joy" in Sanskrit. He is expected to drop his lessons books for a crown, at least until his health improves. He has always been a delicate child.

"The laws may be quickly changed in Siam, so nothing is certain yet," she warned him.

Mother and son still were awaiting official confirmation of Prajadhipok's abdication, which he announced to the world Sunday at Cranleigh, England, expecting to receive it from the Siamese minister to Paris.

Siamese authorities there said "we understand the act of abdication is going to Siam by airplane and the government's response probably will come the same way."

Prajadhipok, who has become plain Prince Sikkhodaya, named no successor. It was explained that Siamese laws provide for the contingency.

Rupture Disappears As If By Magic Doctor's New Discovery Wins Applause of Thousands.

Kansas City, Mo.—Dr. A. Kaiser, 1227 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main St., of this city, has discovered a new rupture method that is so successful hundreds have thrown their trusses away—all signs of rupture gone. This method does away with leg straps, elastic belts, binding springs and harsh pads. Every week more and more letters are received from users telling how they now go without any support. Those who do not wish to undergo the knife should investigate this discovery. The doctor offers to send his inexpensive method to any rupture sufferer for 30 days' use and make no charge if they are not pleased in that time. If you are ruptured be sure to write Doctor Kaiser tonight for his trial offer.—(adv.)

Son of Alfonso Is Joined To Emanuela De Dampierre

ROME, March 4.—(P)—Emanuela de Dampierre, American-French girl, became a royal princess at a brilliant wedding today uniting her to Don Jaime, son of former King Alfonso of Spain.

The granddaughter of the former Josephine Curtis, of Boston, whose ancestors played an important part in United States history, and the tall and slender young man, who was married in a royal ceremony in the presence of scores of members of royalty, hundreds from aristocracy of France, Spain and Italy, and a number of Americans.

(Don Jaime has long suffered from an auditory ailment for which he has received treatment in a number of European medical centers, and an accompanying impediment of speech.) After being received in a private audience by Pope Pius, who presented them with a rosary and a prayer book, the royal couple were guests of honor at a brilliant breakfast reception at an aristocratic palace in Rome.

Animals are related to human welfare in many direct ways. One of the most striking instances of the relationship of rats to ourselves was demonstrated last year when there was a big rat-killing campaign conducted in Georgia. Typhus fever is carried by a flea that is parasitic on the rats. The simplest way to control the disease, therefore, is to control the rats. This was done by poisoning—a specific poison that was put out in south Georgia in enormous quantities. Epidemiological methods were called into action and the focal point of the infection were discovered. There the rats were killed. What has been the result?

Whereas typhus fever had been doubling every year in this state for several years, it was reduced by this one campaign to about half of the previous year's record. Who shall say, then, that killing the rats was not a useful campaign?

The same relationship exists in other animal species but in a rather different way. Do you know that this state imports poultry in enormous numbers from adjoining states? Do you realize the opposite side of the picture accounts for this in no small measure? There are thousands of head of poultry killed annually in Georgia by predatory animals. As a matter of fact, the damage of predators to poultry is estimated at $5,000,000 annually. There is a lot of noise made about saving the taxpayers half that amount. It is high time we took the situation in hand and allowed the experienced, professional trappers to go out and use steel traps to reduce the numbers of these pests.

I do not believe there is a person in the state who would insist upon allowing the depredations of these animals to continue, even though they may characterize the steel trap as an instrument of torture. And, by the way, the steel trap is not that when correctly used. I have seen possums and mink in steel traps asleep. There was no scene of disaster. The animal had realized it was caught, and had accepted the situation, sleeping while it waited for what was going to happen. If the pain was as intense as the opponents of sound trapping legislation contend, no animal on earth could sleep in the jaws of a trap.

Atlanta Aids Probe.

"We have retained a private detective agency to make an investigation for us," said William L. Marcy Jr., of Buffalo, N. Y., counsel for Mrs. Catherine Statler, of Tucson, Ariz. P. Whitfield, of Atlanta, representative of this agency, began work on the case today.

Edwin F. Jaekle, Buffalo attorney, and representative of Ellsworth Statler, 22 of England, joined Marcy in the statement and added that while there was no intention to criticize local authorities the Statler interests were not entirely satisfied with the investigation they have been making.

Solicitor Pruett, who has announced he expects to call upwards of 50 witnesses at the inquest, said it would not be completed for three or four days.

"At least several days," he said, will be required for Dr. C. C. Carpenter, of Wake Forest Medical College, who performed an autopsy, to complete his report.

In a preliminary report, Dr. Carpenter said sufficient carbonyl cyanide was found to have caused the death of Mrs. Davidson whose body was reported found stretched out on the floor of her automobile in the Davidson garage last Wednesday morning.

Full Report Awaited.

Pruett said he expected the full report to disclose whether there were contributory causes other than the poison gas from an automobile exhaust—to Mrs. Davidson's death.

Aside from the murkiness of the case, the only finding which has been made public is that there were a number of small bruises on her thighs.

The solicitor has made known that he has discarded any theory of accidental death because of evidence he has not disclosed and is considering only the possibilities of suicide and murder.

He said he hoped to establish the movements of the previous day and the morning of the death, of both Mrs. Davidson, the adopted daughter of the late E. M. Statler, hotel magnate, and of her husband, H. Bradley Davidson Jr., 41-year-old Washington socialite whose marriage was two months ago.

Davidson testified at an inquest hearing last Wednesday that he and

Bogus Two Dollar Bill Circulated for 70 Years

BALTIMORE, March 4.—(P)—Secret service agents here picked up a counterfeit $2 bill today that had been in circulation for approximately 70 years. And they pronounced it a poor counterfeit at that.

At first the federal men thought they had discovered a bit of the handiwork of one Pete McCartney, master money "maker" of the Civil War period. But Bartholomew Bratten, chief agent, discredited the thought.

"Pete was good," he said. "This bill isn't perfect enough to have been his."

TWO WORDS HOLD KEY IN E. C. COLLINS' TRIAL

Suspended Jurist Quoted as Bribe-Taking Testimony Is Commenced.

MIAMI, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Upon the article "he" hinged first day's testimony against E. C. Collins, suspended criminal court judge, fighting in his own courtroom charges of bribe-taking and embezzlement.

Indicted as he preside at a state church conference in Deland, Judge Collins returned home and said he accepted the disputed $270 from J. W. Davis Sr., of Jemison, Ala., as payment of fine and costs assessed Davis' son, J. W. Davis Jr., on an automobile theft charge.

Arthur Peavy, court reporter for the Miami Herald, told of Judge Collins explaining to the assembled reporters and court officers that he had not been in his office for some days, and described how the jurist took a roll of bank notes from a small safe.

"This is the Davis money," Peavy quoted the judge as saying as he handed the cash to the clerk. The reporter said there were two $100, and $50, and one $20 bank note in the roll turned in by the jurist. At the same time, Collins issued a general denial of wrongdoing.

But earlier in the afternoon, the elder Davis testified emphatically the $270 he paid Judge Collins consisted of one $50 and the remainder in $20 and $10 bills, and insisted there were no bank notes of more than $50.

Defense counsel, questioning Peavy closely regarding the jurist's statement, said Collins might instead have said:

"This is the amount of the Davis money."

Peavy insisted his recollection was that Judge Collins had said:

"This is the Davis money."

From court attaches, the special prosecutors obtained the admission that the jurist had shown any sentence had been made in the Davis case.

Davis, first witness to come before the grand jury, told of hearing his son sentenced to prison for theft of the automobile.

"I begged the judge to give him a suspended sentence and said I would pay the costs," the jurist testified.

"The judge said no. The boy was sentenced and I went up to jail with him and the jailer said Judge Collins had called for me to come back."

"I came back and sat in the courtroom until court adjourned. The judge then called me up and said he thought he could arrange for a fine and costs. He asked me how I was fixed for money and I told him I had a little I had borrowed."

"I pulled the money out in an envelope and he said, 'Wait, we'll go in the back room.'"

"I took out the money and he took $270. That left me $20—not quite enough to get home on."

Davis testified the judge said he was taking the $270 "in trust" and gave him 20 days to raise the balance of $465.16 due for fine and costs. The jurist later sent the balance in two money orders, also delivered to the clerk by the judge after indictment.

The weather during the last 48 hours has been far above normal, which is 49 degrees for this time of year. The high Sunday was 72 degrees and Monday saw the mercury climb to within one degree of that mark, despite partial cloudiness. The minimum temperature Monday morning was 51 degrees, and was expected to be 50 degrees this morning, according to Mr. Mindling.

The rain predicted for today is part of a storm of vast extent which is sweeping across the country from the west. Rain extended Monday from Texas almost to Canada, and snow fell north of the Canadian border.

OKLAHOMA PROBES CLEAR WOMAN WARDEN

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 4.—(P)—Mrs. George A. Waters—once the nation's only woman warden of a men's prison, now ambitious to become Oklahoma's first woman senator—received a clean bill today from a committee which investigated her eight-year administration at Granite state reformatory.

The outcome of the probe didn't mean a lot—practically at least—for Mrs. Waters was discharged nearly two weeks ago and a man, Fred Hunt, was named to succeed her.

The investigators, drawn from the state senate, discredited completely the charges of cruelty to prisoners and also declared reports of sexual perversion among the inmates were unfounded.

his wife returned home in the early morning from a charity ball with their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Campaigne, of New York, and retired to separate rooms.

Mrs. Davidson suffered from insomnia and was in the habit of going for a ride, he said, when she could not sleep.

The Davidson butler discovered her body about 9:30 a. m. She was wearing only a skirt and sweater and mules.

MELLON DAUGHTER INVOLVED IN CASE

Personal Affairs of Mrs. Bruce Aired in Suit at Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, March 4.—(P)—The government threw a spotlight on the private finances of Andrew W. Mellon's daughter today as it strove before the tax appeals board to sustain a $3,088,000 assessment placed on the former treasury secretary's 1931 income.

Spending his ninth day on the witness stand, Howard M. Johnson, frail secretary of the multi-millionaire, had first brought out on indirect questioning, that his chief could have established $15,747,000 loss that year instead of $3,625,000, if he had sold all the stock on which the market was below his cost price.

The government contends that both Ascalot, his daughter's holding company, and Mellon established losses for income tax deductions through "shadow sales"—as it contends many other sales by him were not real sales.

Jackson brought out that the daughter, Alisa Mellon, had no income tax herself in 1933, although she received a reputed dividend from the $14,000,000 Ascalot Company of $150,000, and that she is asking refunds on payments made in 1931 and 1932.

In east instance the claim was made by Mrs. Bruce that stock sales by Ascalot—many of them to her father—resulted in heavy losses to the capital of her company and that payments made to her actually were from capital and therefore not taxable.

Johnson said Ascalot in 1931, the only year it paid a tax, had a net profit of $4,988.55 from stock sales and other taxable income. Dividends paid to corporations not being taxable, the $328,494 it received was not included. It paid Mrs. Bruce $321,000 in 1932 the company lost $238,538 from stock sales, received $156,697 in non-taxable dividends and paid Mrs. Bruce $163,000. In 1933 it reported a loss of $347,609 from sales, principally through disposal of 46,000 shares of Southern Pacific stock at a loss of $375,000, received $125,768 in non-taxable dividends and paid Mrs. Bruce the $150,500.

Mrs. Bruce, Johnson said, reported a net income of $86.98 in 1933, not listing the money received from Ascalot on the contention it was a drawn on capital. Government Counsel Jackson brought out that capital losses suffered are cumulative, and that until the capital is replaced, Mrs. Bruce still may receive deductions from her income.

Pressing for other details of Mrs. Bruce's income, Jackson had Johnson testify she had sold to her father two New York co-operative apartments, one at 1 Beekman place and the other at 3 Sutton place, and claiming an income tax refund because of the loss in the transaction. She lives at 3 Sutton place.

On the sale of Southern Pacific stock, in which Ascalot acquired approximately $92,000 in cash, Jackson pointed out that it in turn bought a block of Koppers Gas & Coke stock from Mellon, on which the financier took a tax deductible loss of $82,200.

Jackson said he "hoped" to complete the testimony of Johnson tomorrow. Mellon's attorney, Frank J. Hogan, who is presenting his side first, said he expects to call H. A. Phillips, oldest employee of Mellon and keeper of his securities, as the next witness.

Oklahoma Gets Colonels When Governor Leaves

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 4.—(P)—Let Kentucky's Governor Ruby Laffoon look to his laurels as No. 1 name of honorary colonels if Governor E. W. Marland leaves Oklahoma again.

Marland was away two days. When he returned, thanks to James E. Berry—fat, bald, the lieutenant governor and head man when Marland toured—the crop of Oklahoma colonels had been hiked to 32.

Eleven of these were relatives of the rubicund lieutenant governor. "The governor has jobs to pass around to those who helped elect him. All I have to give out is colonel commissions," said Berry.

Inspectors Exonerate Officers of Mohawk

NEW YORK, March 4.—(P)—The local steamboat inspectors today made public their findings in the Mohawk disaster of last January 24, attributing the disaster to a misunderstanding in signals and concluding with this statement:

"After considering all the testimony taken, the board finds no cause for action against any of the surviving officers of the Mohawk."

The Ward liner Mohawk collided with the Norwegian freighter Talisman six and one-half miles south of Sea Girt, N. J., and went to the bottom of the Atlantic. Forty-five persons perished.

$11,000 IN JEWELS TAKEN BY THIEVES

Questioning of Woman at Miami Bares Robbery of Mrs. Peabody.

MIAMI, Fla., March 4.—(P)—The questioning here today of a woman revealed Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, of Chicago, lost $11,000 in jewels to thieves who entered her Nassau, Bahamas, cottage on February 25.

Detective Chief L. O. Scanlon said the woman, at the request of Bahamas authorities, was taken into custody upon her arrival from Nassau by plane. The questioning failed to disclose anything of investigative value, he said.

Mrs. Peabody, wearing other gems valued at $50,000, left her cottage on the night of February 25 to attend a social affair. Her maid locked all doors, police were told. When Mrs. Peabody returned she found the front door unfastened and the jewels missing.

Mrs. Peabody sailed for New York Tuesday on the Carinthia.

PAY DELAY-URGED ON GERMAN DEBTS

Interest Rate Cut Also Asked by Head of Reichsbank.

LEIPZIG, Germany, March 4.—(AP) A moratorium of several years on interest payments for German private debts abroad was strongly urged today by Hjalmar Schacht, economic director and head of the reichsbank.

He also recommended reduction of the interest rate to a "reasonable basis" when payments are resumed, and creation of normal international trade conditions meantime, in order to regulate German indebtedness amounting to some 25 billion marks.

Addressing the annual spring fair here Schacht said "the solution of the transfer problem in connection with the German debt is possible along two lines only—either through reducing interest and amortization rates in connection with temporary moratorium or through sufficiently increasing Germany's excess profits over imports."

"I am glad to note," he continued, "that Mr. Grady of the American state department (Henry F. Grady, chief of the trade agreement section of the state department) apparently also clearly sees this alternative and urges a compromise based upon both measures. That would be in accord with the method I have repeatedly urged upon our creditors, namely to cease paying service on the German loan for a few years and then resume it at a reasonable interest rate."

"The time intervening would have to be used in order to again build up normal international trade relations. Interest accruing in the meantime could be funded and added to the loan."

"In order to demonstrate our honest intentions I would even go so far as to concede resurrection of all the original claims of creditors upon those loans if later such an agreement should not be lived up to by us."

Schacht, who referred to the United States as "the great American way of life," said the reichsbank's economic policy is "not to buy more than can be paid for and primarily to buy only what is essential."

It was nonsense, he emphasized, to say that he, Schacht, was in conflict with national socialist economic policies.

"All that I say and do has the full approval of Der Fuehrer," he said. "I would do or say nothing without his approval."

After showing how Germany has changed from a country with credits abroad totaling 25,000,000,000 marks before the war to one with 25,000,000,000 marks in debt abroad today, Schacht charged foreign nations with nullifying Germany's efforts to meet her obligations by "trade restrictions and exchange dumpings."

The systems of clearing, he believed, "delivered a new blow to world trade. These clearing agreements not only completely stopped our transit trade but beyond that through their bureaucracies scared the foreign buyer from purchasing in Germany."

"Normal German import credit was obliterated by this. Private initiative was extraordinarily restricted. The more clearing agreements are perfected between different countries, the more will free multilateral exchange of goods, from which a revival of world trade can be expected, be made impossible."

Germany was forced by circumstances, he said, to adopt bilateral agreements on the principle of "buying our raw materials wherever we can obtain them in exchange for German goods. We regret it for instance, if we can no longer buy cotton from the greatest cotton producers in the world, the United States, but we must satisfy our need for cotton from countries from which up to this time we have obtained practically none."

Beverage Company's Plant Destroyed in $15,000 Blaze

Firement of seven Atlanta fire stations are seen above fighting the fire that completely destroyed the Dixie Bottle and Beverage Company, 380 Castleberry street, Monday afternoon, leaving only the bare walls standing. The company was the distributor of Red Top beer in Atlanta and vicinity. Staff photo by George Corbett.

Smoke from the fire at the Dixie Bottle and Beverage Company Monday afternoon caused a partial eclipse of the sun over downtown Atlanta while flames consumed the company's storage plant and warehouse located at 380 Castleberry street.

Fire engines answering the frantic calls of the workman who first discovered the blaze arrived to find the building already in flames. It was impossible to stop the fire or save any portion of the building, and the firemen directed their attention toward keeping the wall from falling.

Harry J. Moret, manager of the company, said that the cause of the fire was unknown, and that it probably would be impossible to determine it, but that the through draft in the old building was responsible for the rapid spread of the flames.

Damage was estimated at $15,000 by Mr. Moret, who said that the building was insured.

Seven fire companies, under the direction of fire Chief Parker, fought the fire, which for a time threatened to spread to surrounding buildings.

The Dixie Bottle and Beverage Company is the Atlanta distributor of Red Top beer. Mr. Moret was negotiating for a new warehouse even before the ashes of the old one were cold.

HOLC EFFICIENCY UPHELD BY FAHEY

Corporation Head Invites Investigation in Answer to Graft Charges.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—An investigation of the work of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was invited today by Chairman John H. Fahey, who appeared before the house rules committee to answer charges of graft and inefficiency.

Fahey denied there had been any inefficiency on the part of the corporation, asserting that every safeguard possible had been thrown around its work considering that it was created in the midst of an emergency, organized under intense pressure and overwhelmed by an avalanche of loan applications which quickly mounted to over 1,750,000.

Fahey revealed that 104 persons have been indicted for violation of the home owners' loan act, but said that only 30 had ever been employed by the corporation. The legal department, he said, through its special criminal section, has dealt with over 1,200 complaints.

Inquiry Invited.
In inviting an investigation, Fahey suggested that such an inquiry, even though it would delay the corporation's work, might be justified if it enabled congress and the public to understand better the corporation's problems and its accomplishments in relieving distress of nearly a million home owners and protecting the savings of millions of small bank depositors.

"If there existed any such general condition of graft and inefficiency as these few vague criticisms have alleged," Fahey said, "there would have been a far greater volume of protests from the army of over 1,750,000 applicants who have been in contact with employees of the HOLC."

On 31 Cases.
"The fact is that less than 50 charges from all this vast number of applicants have been made before congress as to the corporation's practices, dealings or delays. Of this number, 31 cases have been referred to the grand jury."

Damage was estimated at $15,000 by Mr. Moret, who said that the building was insured.

'Pirate Gold' Discovery Is Denied by Mexicans

MEXICALI, Lower California, March 4.—(AP)—Mexican officials unenthusiastically gave the lie today to reports a huge chest of pirate gold had been found on Santa Margarita island, off Magdalena bay.

What had been described as precious treasure, the officials said, was lumber and steel.

Governor Juan Dominguez, executive of the southern district of Lower California, with headquarters at La Paz, reported that the story of the find of a chest with $1,000,000 worth of gold in it three months ago was born apparently in the imaginative minds of fishermen who arrived at San Diego yesterday.

ber specific information has been given us in only 31 cases. Out of these 31 cases only eight deserve the serious consideration of any committee interested in dealing with the facts."

Fahey said "every conceivable device" has been successfully employed to prevent graft, malfeasance and neglect on the part of members of the board or central executives of the corporation "and to assure fair treatment to home owners and to protect the government's interest."

BRITAIN INCREASES BUDGET FOR ARMY

19 Million Estimated Hike
Laid to Belligerent Actions in Germany.

LONDON, March 4.—(AP)—Great Britain added $19,750,000 to the 1935 army budget estimates today and blamed the increase on Germany's increased armaments.

A new elastic policy of expansion for British Empire defenses was initiated by the government in a white paper presented to parliament by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald almost on the eve of Sir John Simon's peace mission to Berlin.

MacDonald in an unexpected attack, attributed Britain's feeling of insecurity particularly upon German rearmament, but also included to some extent American, Russia, Japanese and other increases in arms.

Added increases for the British air force and the navy will be made known during the week.

With both feet the British government jumped on the force and spirit with which the German people are being organized, and warned that peace was endangered. While such criticism has been made before in various ways, it takes on new significance just when Britain is trying to bring about a new foundation for peace by a co-operative security system on the continent.

Some quarters took this to mean the foreign secretary intends to spare no words in stating the situation plainly to Adolf Hitler when he and Captain Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, go to Berlin on Thursday. The proposed extension of the trip to Moscow, it appeared today, is off.

The government's statement in parliament admitted failure of what it termed its own unilateral disarmament policy and urged a new naval agreement avoiding a naval race. It reiterated the capital ship foundation of British naval policy and renewed the view that Britain's frontier has moved outward from the English channel.

Sharply rebuking Germany's methods the government said "The desire for peace expressed by leaders of Germany has been welcomed by his majesty's government, but they cannot fail to recognize that not only the forces but the spirit in which the German people are being organized contribute to the general feeling of insecurity."

TVA INJUNCTIONS SIGNED BY GRUBB

Quick Appeal To U. S. Court of Appeals Prom- ised by Authority.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 4.—(AP)—Another "New Deal" project, extensive electrification of "yardstick" rates in the Tennessee valley tonight was moved toward the United States supreme court for test of its constitutionality. A quick appeal to the United States court of appeals at New Orleans was promised by counsel for the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Judge W. I. Grubb in United States district court today signed two formal injunctions restraining the Alabama Power Company from transferring north Alabama properties to the Tennessee Valley Authority, holding the contract for sale of the Alabama Power Company to be null and void. The injunctions were issued to prevent the TVA from operating in the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In the same decree, Judge Grubb enjoined the Alabama Power Company from operating as an agency for the Electric Home and Farm Authority, Inc., a subsidiary of the TVA, through which TVA's electrical appliances were sold on long-term rates to purchasers.

A third injunction contained in the order prohibited the TVA from selling to towns and cities receiving current from the Alabama Power Company, from entering into or performing any contract with the TVA for the purchase of electric energy, either directly or indirectly.

The order prohibited the towns and cities from borrowing of funds from any federal agency to build a distribution system to obtain TVA current.

In an oral decision 10 days ago in which he held the TVA without constitutional authority to sell surplus power, Judge Grubb also ruled that the construction of Joe Wheeler dam "was legal" and the TVA was entitled to the site, bought from the Alabama Power Company in a contract annulled today.

The order prohibited the utility from seeking to recover the site either through suit or otherwise, or to interfere with construction work on the dam.

Forney Johnston, counsel for a group of preferred shareholders of the Alabama Power Company on whose petition the order today was granted, indicated last week that negotiations could be opened for transfer of the dam site, or the government could institute condemnation proceedings.

The Tennessee Valley Authority is serving Tupelo, Pontotoc and Alcorn counties, Mississippi; Pulaski and Dyer counties, Tennessee; and Alabama, under an interchange agreement with the Alabama Power Company, Judge Grubb ordered that status quo be maintained for four months after it did, and added:

Closed Galleries Sought To Halt Long's Speeches

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Representative Cannon believes that one way to put an end to numerous speeches by Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, makes on the senate floor is to close the galleries to spectators.

Cannon introduced a concurrent resolution in the house today calling for the closing of the public galleries in the house and senate for the duration of the congress so that "important legislation will be accelerated."

Asked if his resolution had reference to the speaking of the Louisiana senator, Cannon said it did, and added:

Text of Roosevelt Message

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's message to congress proposing direct government subsidies to the American merchant marine follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

I present to the congress the question of whether or not the United States should have an adequate merchant marine.

To me, there are three reasons for answering this question in the affirmative. The first is that in time of peace subsidies granted by other nations, shipping companies, and other restrictive or rebating methods may well be used to the detriment of American shipping.

Second, in the event of a major war in which the United States is not involved, our commerce, in the absence of an adequate American merchant marine, might find itself seriously crippled because of its inability to secure bottoms for neutral peaceful foreign trade.

Third, in the event of a war in which the United States itself might be engaged, American flag ships are obviously needed not only for naval auxiliaries, but also for the maintenance of reasonable and necessary commercial intercourse with other nations. We should remember lessons learned in the last war.

In many instances in our history the congress has provided for various kinds of disguised subsidies to American shipping. In recent years the congress has provided this aid in the form of low mail rates at low rates of interest to American shipping companies for the purpose of building new ships for foreign trade.

It has, in addition, appropriated large annual sums under the guise of payments for ocean mail contracts.

This lending of money for shipbuilding has a practice been a failure. Few ships have been built and many difficulties have attended the granting of ocean mail contracts.

The government today is paying annually about thirty million dollars for the mail contracts which it has granted under normal ocean rates, only three million dollars. The difference, $27,000,000 is a subsidy, and nothing but a disguised subsidy.

It is an unsatisfactory and not an honest way of providing the aid that government ought to give to shipping.

I propose that we end this subterfuge. If the congress decides that it will maintain a reasonably adequate American merchant marine I believe that it can do so honestly to call a subsidy by its right name.

Approached in this way, a subsidy amounts to a comparatively simple thing. It must be based upon providing for American shipping government aid to make up the difference between the cost of building and operating American ships and the difference in the cost of building and operating foreign ships. It is a simple thing. It is a subsidy, and nothing but a disguised subsidy.

Wrecking of Highway To Settle Huge Estate

TOWSON, Md., March 4.—(AP)—Fifty-two family tombstones thrown into a swamp near Beckleysville 35 years ago to build a public road will be unearthed in an effort to establish claims to a $17,000,000 estate.

Permission to excavate the roadbed was given today by the Baltimore county commissioners to attorneys for the rich estate of Walter Garrett, Philadelphia snuff manufacturer.

The grave markers are said to be from the family cemetery of descendants of John Garrett, who settled many years ago in this region. Upon their inscriptions rests hope of establishing kinship with the wealthy Philadelphia Garrett.

About the beginning of the century the old burial ground was abandoned, and the grave shafts are said to have been carted to a section of the estate through which a new roadway was being constructed.

The program of activities to be carried on by the "New and Greater" Atlanta Railroad Y. M. C. A. is attracting national attention, was evidenced by a letter received from Herbert C. Johnson, editor of American Business and Economic Review (New York), advising that the next issue of the publication will carry an article on the subject.

A feature article, based on information we have obtained, is being prepared for publication in the forthcoming issue of American Business and Economic Review," said Mr. Johnson's letter.

It will commend the reorganization of the Atlanta Railroad Y. M. C. A. and describe the improved type of service which will be made possible thereby.

The letter was acknowledged with grateful appreciation by Tull C. Waters, general chairman of the pending campaign for enrollment of members of the new organization, and the article is anticipated with interest by leaders in the movement.

Heretofore the service rendered by the Atlanta Railroad Y. M. C. A. has been limited to out-of-town railroad men, stopping overnight on their runs in and out of the city. This has been the case since the organization of the "New and Greater" Atlanta Railroad Y. M. C. A. units over the country.

The "New and Greater" Atlanta Railroad Y. M. C. A. will continue and improve the service for transient railroad men, but in addition will serve the railroad fraternity of Atlanta as a whole, with a great social center embracing a variety of activities for railroad men and their wives and children.

To launch the new organization, it is necessary to have a minimum of 1,000 members. The enrollment campaign is making steady progress, though it has been slowed down considerably by the illness of the general chairman, Mr. Waters, who has been confined to his bed for 10 days. He was much improved Saturday and expected to be out again Monday.

ALABAMA GIRL HEADS COUNCIL AT WESLEYAN

MACON, Ga., March 4.—(AP)—Miss Frances McLean, of Seale, Ala., was elected president of the honor council of Wesleyan College today for the year 1935-36.

Other officers and representatives included Miss Anne Griffin, Sandersville, vice president; Miss Geraldine Dorsey, Abbeville, secretary; Miss Lorraine Estep, Gay, treasurer; Miss Martha Ruth Livingston, Macon, girl representative; Miss Lucille MacDonald, Buford, and Miss Alley Pennington, Monroe, senior representatives; Miss Grace Freeman, Americus, and Miss Barbara Jones, Albany, junior representatives; Miss Doris Everett, Decatur, and Miss Margaret Turner, Tampa, sophomore representatives.

Miss McCann succeeded Miss Mary Seabrook Smith, of Atlanta.

Two Knife Victims Alive at Grady After Delicate Heart Operations

By RALPH T. JONES.

There are two men in the same ward at Grady hospital today who have been stabbed through the heart. The wounds have been seen through the chest and chances are both will live. If they do they will join four other men who have undergone the same experience and who are walking about Atlanta, going about their daily routines today, thanks to the skill of two Atlanta surgeons.

One of the two men in Grady today, John Lawrence, negro, is practically recovered now. He was stabbed some ten days ago and recovered his health. The other man, who is still in the hospital, is a white man, who was stabbed by the surgeons during their operation, are healing nicely. He is comfortable and contented, worried only because he lost a wrist watch and a package of cigarettes when he was stabbed.

The other, Warner Green, negro, stabbed late Sunday night and operated on at midnight Sunday, may or may not live. Monday morning when asked how he felt he answered "good," but his voice was a mighty weak whisper.

Six Cases Still Alive.

Since this method of closing cuts actually in the heart has been perfected, 11 such cases have been treated and six are alive today. The first occurred in 1928 and there have been six since last November.

Of the five who died in only one case was it the operation which caused death. The other four succumbed to infection because the knife with which they were stabbed was dirty. It is impossible to do anything about this and no matter how successfully the wound in the heart is sutured, the infection will kill the patient in a few days.

As one of the surgeons explained it, if the stabbers would sterilize their knives before using them practically all cases could be saved—provided they reached the operating table at Grady hospital quickly enough.

All Cases Negroes.

All 11 cases so far have been negroes. Not because the same operation is not available for white people, but because there have never been a white case with a stab wound in the heart since the operation was perfected.

Stabbings among negroes run probably 25 to 1 in proportion to those among white people. And, of course, it is in only a certain percentage of the wounds the heart is penetrated.

There is a special canvas container at Grady containing all the necessary tools for this wonderful operation. When a heart-stabbing diagnosis is made, the surgeon's implements are all ready, arranged in proper order. In this container and it is brought to the operating room ready for immediate use.

A striking feature of the 11 cases on the records at Grady is that six of them have been performed by the pensioner drew at the time he was pensioned.

6. Passed a charter amendment and sent it to the legislature authorizing the Southeastern Fair Association to borrow up to $150,000 to make improvements at Lakewood park.

7. Sent to the charter revision committee a proposal to amend the city charter so that 35 acres at the northern end of Lakewood park can be utilized as a farmers' market.

8. Sent to the finance committee a proposal by Councilman White to reduce Atlanta water bills 20 per cent effective July 1, and a resolution by Councilman J. Frank Beck to exempt city employees making $50 a month or less from the 5 per cent cut in salaries.

Roll Call Fought.

The roll call on the mosque resolution was obtained only after council overrode a decision by Alderman Ellis B. Barrett, president, that a roll call did not dispose of the mosque matter, and, therefore, a roll call could not be demanded.

White appealed from the decision of the council and they go to Mayor Key today for his action.

Missing Girl Found.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Search for Patricia Mack, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Mack, of this city, who was missing since February 23, ended today when the girl was located with friends at Lake Wales.

shipping problems made by special departmental committees.

One of them, submitted by an interdepartmental committee, listed 18 recommendations for carrying out the new policy. It called for a federal maritime authority to fix subsidies, study marine problems and plan for the construction and operation of the vessels.

Advisory Council.

It also proposed an advisory council on marine problems, with industry and labor both to be represented on the council.

Another report, sent by Postmaster General Farley, said a uniform system of accounting should be set up by the shipping concerns and reported regularly to the governmental agency handling such matters.

President Roosevelt said the indirect subsidies given in the past had proved a failure. He said a direct subsidy amounted to "a comparatively simple thing."

"It should cover first the difference in the cost of building ships; second, the difference in the carrying out of operations; and finally, it should take into consideration the liberal subsidies that many foreign governments provide for their shipping."

"Only by meeting this three-fold differential can we expect to maintain a reasonable place to ocean commerce for ships flying the American flag and at the same time maintain American standards."

Mr. Roosevelt said congress should provide for ending the existing

ARTHUR COMPTON TO LECTURE HERE

Winner of Nobel Prize
Will Speak at Agnes
Scott March 11.

Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner and foremost representative of the new era in physics, will give an illustrated lecture on "Cosmic Rays on Seven Continents" in the auditorium of Agnes Scott College on March 22 at 8:30 o'clock.

Dr. Compton is one of the three American physicists to be awarded the Nobel prize and the only Nobel prize winner to have been presented in a lecture series in Atlanta. He is the foremost experimentalist in the world in the field of cosmic rays and has conducted experiments in all parts of the world—Peru, Panama, Australia, Alaska—and even 11 1/2 miles in the stratosphere.

Dr. Compton during his experiments and investigations has taken pictures on seven continents and will illustrate his lecture by these, many of which are in color and very beautiful. He is at present lecturing at Oxford University, England, and his lectures there and on the continent have been described in the press as absorbingly interesting.

He comes to Agnes Scott direct from England and his lecture under the auspices of the Agnes Scott Lecture Association will be the first given in this country after his most recent investigations. The public is invited to hear him. Tickets will be $1 for seats in a reserved section and 75 cents for general admission.

D. A. V. CHAPTER MEETS WITH LADIES TONIGHT

Reports on the progress of the membership drive of the Betty Harrison Jones Chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, will be made at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel. L. L. Hargrove, commander announced Monday. All active members and those eligible to join are asked to attend.

The Ladies' auxiliary will meet at the same time and place, and all mothers, wives and daughters of members of the Betty Harrison Jones Chapter are invited. The purpose of the Disabled American Veterans' organizations will be reviewed at both meetings.

Still Coughing?

If you have tried various remedies for that cough without getting relief, you probably need Creomulsion, but before buying it, go to a reliable druggist in your neighborhood and ask him all about Creomulsion. He knows what's in it. Creomulsion is carefully prepared for those who are willing to pay a trifle more for the best. The best is the cheapest in the long run. Ask your druggist what he thinks of Creomulsion for Coughs and Chest Colds.—(adv.)

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed.

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Store gives every Pile sufferer a try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.—(adv.)

A. & P. Employees Give Dimes

H. H. Altman (left), general superintendent of the A. & P. Tea Company in Atlanta, Monday presented a check for $54.40 to Lewis F. Gordon, treasurer of the Grant Park zoo fund. The money represents 544 dimes contributed by employees of the company toward the fund to erect proper housing at Grant Park for the animals given the city by Asa G. Candler.

Drive for 150,000 Dimes Gaining, Part of Zoo To Be Moved This Week

The fund for the Grant park zoo, to build good new homes there for the animals given the city by Asa G. Candler, is steadily growing. Of the needed 150,000 dimes, 32,521 were on hand Monday, including several substantial contributions from various business houses and other organizations, in and out of the city.

While the total sought is still far short of the 150,000 dimes which, at most economical calculation, are essential if all the Candler animals and birds, as he offers, are to be moved to Grant park, a portion of the Briarcliff zoo will be moved this week, it was said Monday by George I. Simons, city manager of parks.

The money already on hand will defray the cost of renovation of existing animal cages at Grant park so that a zebra, a camel and a score or more of monkeys can be moved. The city will ask the emergency relief administration to supply the labor for this work, in order to hold the cost as low as practicable.

Four water buffalo have already been moved to Grant park and, as the pile of dimes grows, more animals will be transferred just as fast as their new quarters are completed.

584 Dimes Contributed. Lewis F. Gordon, treasurer of the fund, received 584 dimes from the A. & P. Tea Company, representing better than 100 per cent giving by every employee of that organization. Each gave at least a dime to the cause and some gave numbers of dimes.

The Atlanta fire department sent in an additional 300 dimes on Monday, some fire stations having already sent in their contributions direct.

Another interesting contribution came from Marietta, where Chapter No. 208, of the Eastern Star, collected 22 1/2 dimes.

Work of the children in the city schools who are particularly interested in seeing the drive pushed to success, became more noticeable Monday when two city schools sent in substantial gifts. The Joel Chandler Harris school deposited 373 dimes collected or given by its pupils while the Peoples Street school came in the tune of 312 1/2 dimes.

School Aids Cause. The Lovett school, a private school at 921 Myrtle street, of which Mrs. W. C. Lovett is principal, contributed 105 dimes through Dan Elkin Jr., who sent them to The Constitution.

Atlanta Opportunity school, room No. 304, gave 22 1/2 dimes, while Howard Brothers Manufacturing Company joined the list of firms which have won honor listing by giving at least one dime from each employee, with a total of 13 dimes.

Contributions to the fund, which has still more than 75 per cent of its course to run, may be sent to either of the three Atlanta newspapers or directly to Lewis F. Gordon, the treasurer, at the Citizens & Southern National bank, on Marietta street.

VIRGINIA DILLON HAS STELLAR ROLE IN EMORY DRAMA

"Pigs," a three-act comedy starring Virginia Dillon and George Downing, will be enacted by the Emory Players in Glenn Memorial auditorium at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening. There are nine veteran members of the players cast in the play, written by Anne Morrison and Patterson McNutt, and also Marion Calhoun, of the Agnes Scott Blackfriars.

Miss Dillon, as Mildred Cushing, and George Downing, as Thomas Atkins Jr., a farmer boy aspiring to be a veterinarian, are two youthful lovers who find it impossible to marry for lack of money. Affairs take an upward turn only after Thomas' mother turns benefactor by purchasing pigs which may in turn be sold by her son.

There is in one scene of the comedy a pigpen holding nine live pigs, primed for several weeks by the players for Thursday night's performance.

In contrast to the naive lovers is the sophisticated pair, Frances Stanton, as Lenore Hastings, and Edmund Pendleton, as Spencer Atkins, Harvard graduate, and Thomas' older brother.

Others cast in "Pigs" include Eloise Hopkins, Walter Wilson, Glenn Hutchinson, Sam Shiver and Christy Harp.

Student Is Killed In Newnan Accident

NEWNAN, Ga., March 4.—(P)—Rubin Cumber, of Stroud, Ala., was killed and another student at Atlanta Southern Dental College in Atlanta was injured, in an automobile accident here last night.

The other student who was injured was listed at the college as Ferrell Lane, of Wedowee, Ala. He and a girl listed as Miss Evelyn Benton, of Atlanta, were brought to a hospital here.

The three were injured as their car collided with another automobile.

MORTUARY

MRS. E. A. PALMER. Mrs. Essie Mae Palmer, 37, wife of R. A. Palmer, died Monday at an Atlanta hospital. She resided at 718 Plum street, and was active in the Order of the Eastern Star and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Beside her husband she leaves a son, Paul Palmer, her father, H. N. Gray, and a brother, Ralph Gray, of Atlanta. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced by the West Side Funeral Home.

MRS. J. C. NEVILLE. Mrs. J. C. Neville, 89, of 506 East Yale avenue, College Park, died Monday morning following an illness of three months. Surviving are her husband's daughter, Mrs. R. A. Durant; six sons, Ray, Ralph, Joseph, John and George Neville, of College Park, and Julian Neville, of East Point; and a brother, J. C. Sattles, of College Park. Funeral services are to be conducted by Dr. Wallace Rogers at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the College Park Methodist church, and interment will be in West View cemetery with her sons acting as pallbearers. R. M. Patterson & Son are in charge.

MRS. LILLIE BRYAN. The funeral of Mrs. Lillie Bryan, former Atlantan who died in Miami, Fla., is to be held at 10 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill. Dr. Louis D. Newton will have charge of the service and interment will be in Crown Hill cemetery.

WILLIAM G. GABLE. William G. Gable, veteran railroad employee, died Monday morning at the age of 87 at an Atlanta hospital. He resided at 788 Delmar avenue. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. D. D. Hacker, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. J. R. Cochran, of Atlanta; and a son, Frederick R. Gable, also of Atlanta. Mr. Gable was employed in the office of the N. C. and St. L. railroad for many years before his retirement. Tribute will be paid him at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Autry & Lowndes and the Rev. R. F. Fraser will be in charge of the rites. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

U. S. HUNTS PASSER OF BOGUS MONEY

Two Women Sought Believed To Be Members of Abrams Gang.

Two women passers of counterfeit $10 federal reserve notes described by George Brodnax, secret service operative here, as members of the notorious Richard Adams gang of counterfeiters, were being sought in Atlanta Monday by Mr. Brodnax and other secret service men.

Adams, known by a score of aliases, was at one time a prisoner in the federal prison here, but was transferred to a federal prison camp in New York, where he escaped. He is regarded as the most expert counterfeiter now operating. Numerous attempts have been made to capture him since his escape, but he has always managed to elude the government agents on his trail.

A counterfeit $10 bill, which Mr. Brodnax immediately recognized as Adams' handiwork, was turned in at an Atlanta bank Saturday, and it is believed that a large number of them were passed in this city on the same day.

The counterfeit bills, which are on Cleveland, St. Louis or San Francisco banks, are so expertly done that they are readily mistaken for genuine bills. The scroll work along the borders of the counterfeit is not so distinct as on genuine $10 notes, and the silk threads found in bills turned out by the mint are missing. Otherwise they are faithful reproductions.

Atlanta employees women to dispose of the $10 notes he prints, and in consequence the United States agents here were searching for two women as the passers not only of the bills but of numerous other counterfeiters, which are expected to turn up within the next day or two.

OFFICIAL OF FERA TO VIEW RESULTS OF TRAFFIC SURVEY

Burton Marsh, national authority on traffic problems, who is associate FERA safety director, will be in Atlanta March 12 to inspect the results of the FERA traffic survey which was made in Atlanta recently at a total cost of $40,000.

Marsh notified Kirk Hancock, chairman of the state safety committee, and Jack Strouss, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, that he would be here.

The principal survey recommendations were the establishment of four main traffic arteries, intended to speed the in-and-out flow of cars from the downtown area. Only one of these boulevards, Spring street, was ever made an official artery by city council and that action was rescinded.

AGNES SCOTT ELECTS ON MARCH 21 AND 22

Students of Agnes Scott College on March 21 and 22 will, by popular vote, elect officers for the various college organizations for the next school year. The election calls for the posting, on March 10, of the names of eligible candidates and the popular nomination of candidates from this list on March 18.

The nominating committee is composed of the presidents and vice presidents of student governments, the athletic association of the Y. W. C. A., the editors and business managers of the three college publications, the president of the day students and the recorder of points. The committee has been meeting once a week since the beginning of the second semester.

Hitler Kicks Out More Nazi Leaders

BERLIN, March 4.—(P)—Elements of the relentless Nazi party purge were contained tonight in the retirement of two high ranking provincial government officials and widespread reports of the removal of a third, who became a brown shirt even before Adolf Hitler did.

Jermann Von Lueninck, leading administrative official of Rhine province since March, 1933, was "placed in retirement at his own request." The official announcement gave no other reasons.

Manfred Von Killinger, premier of Saxony, was "discharged with thanks for his services" by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Reports neither denied nor confirmed were circulated throughout Munich and Berlin that Hermann Esser, economics minister for Bavaria and chief of the state chancellery, had been removed from office. He holds party membership "No. 2" and has long been considered a Nazi mainstay in Munich.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(P)—Chairman Doughton, of the house ways and means committee, today introduced a measure calling for repeal of the controverted "pink slip" legislation requiring publicity for income taxes.

It merely would repeal "Section 55 (B) of the revenue act of 1934 relating to filing and making public certain income statements." Some senators have indicated they would not permit repeal.

Bill Seeks Abolition Of 'Pink Slip' Clause

The Man WHO KNOWS LIFE!

SOMETIMES we are reluctant to give him even a few minutes. He is just a Life Insurance Underwriter, we say. No—he is much more than that. He is the man who knows life.

Life underwriting has become a profession. Men and women entering it are carefully trained. Perhaps no one is better equipped to give practical suggestions for increasing and conserving your estate and providing for your family's welfare.

Behind the Life Underwriter is the knowledge and experience gained through the years by our great insurance companies. All day long he contacts people, discussing with them not only today, but tomorrow. Estate building, education for the children, provision to replace earning power, ways and means for retirement in old age—these are his practical problems and his daily discussions with thinking people.

Our bank believes in life insurance, and in the value of the knowledge and experience of the man who knows life—the Life Underwriter. A little time spent with him will probably prove a good investment.

amendment and for the bill, Lindsay told the house that he believed Governor Talmadge had told the house that he anticipated the state's income for the next two years about $2,000,000 less than it actually will be in order that he may use that which is not appropriated to carry out his pledge to pay off the state's deficit without increasing taxes.

"The governor as head of the budget commission has told this legislature that the state will not get more than $9,600,000 in general fund revenues in 1936 and 1937, but I do not think this is correct," Lindsay said. "I think that there will be about $11,000,000 or $12,000,000 collected in 1936 and 1937 and I can see the governor using the surplus over appropriations to pay off the deficit. The truth about the matter is that he is going to starve the state departments and the common schools if necessary to pay off what the state owes."

School Proponents Oppose Bill.
The six votes against the special appropriation were cast by members who led the fight last week to increase the general appropriations to the common schools from $4,000,000, as recommended by the budget commission, and $4,100,000, as recommended by the house appropriations committee, to $4,250,000.

One of the opponents of the special appropriation was Representative Williams, of Bacon county, who was the author of the amendment fixing the common schools at the figure finally voted by the house.

The general appropriations bill, which was attacked in a statement Sunday by Governor Talmadge as being beyond the anticipated revenue reached the senate Monday and was given first reading before being referred to the appropriations committee of that body, headed by Senator William Lester, of Augusta, a strong Talmadge follower.

Senator Lester said that "we will make every effort to see that the figures are within the limit set by the budget commission."

Committee Meets Today.
The committee will discuss the bill at a meeting this afternoon.

Another outstanding development of the day was submission to the house of a bill designed to permit participation by the state in the federal government's recovery program and municipalities to contract with the federal government for the construction of public utility plants on a rental basis.

It grew out of the recent investigation of President Roosevelt's administration program in Washington by a committee of the Georgia legislature, headed by Speaker Rivers.

The committee went to Washington to determine what legislation was necessary for this state to participate in these gigantic relief plans.

Rivers was author of the bill Monday along with Representatives Roy Harris, of Augusta, the house leader; W. D. Lanier, of Augusta, and H. H. Watson, of Paulding. Both Harris and Watson are members of the relief committee.

Last week the house rejected a proposal by Watson asking $25,000 for a state commission to handle old age pension funds from the federal government. Watson drew up two other similar plans to set up state agencies to handle unemployment insurance and widows' and orphans' benefits, which were included in the national program, but he withdrew these when the house refused to accept his first proposal.

Has "Even Chance."
Commenting on the bill Monday, Harris said that Georgia still had an "even chance" of getting its share of the vast outlay of money if congress passes the relief measure.

Under the new proposal, political subdivisions of the state, including school districts and boards of education, would be allowed to negotiate with the national government for construction of water systems, sewer systems, electric power plants, recreation projects and other public undertakings. Instead of pledging their credit for such properties, the subdivisions would only pay rent periodically.

Georgia is still trying to obtain $2,500,000 from Washington to keep the common schools open this spring. An application for this amount, signed by Governor Talmadge and M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, was turned down recently. The relief administration promised the legislative committee the matter would be looked into further.

The governor, who has severely criticized the national administration at almost every turn, has not made known his attitude toward the present relief program, but members of the legislature, nevertheless, are going ahead with plans to let this state participate.

Other Measures Passed.
Among the other important measures passed by the house during the day were:
A bill, already approved by the sen-

Gov. Talmadge Signs Uniform Anti-Narcotics Bill

ate, to increase the number of state depositories. This bill was voted, 114 to 0, and is now ready for the signature of the governor.

A bill by Representative Garrett, of Carroll county, which forces the owners of dogs over 3 months old to have them inoculated every 12 months against hydrophobia. Dogs so inoculated are to be killed. The department of health is authorized to provide serum for the inoculations, the fee being 50 cents, half of which is to be paid to the person handling the inoculation.

A bill by Mrs. Helen Williams Coxson, of Long county, directing all horse-drawn vehicles as well as motor cars to carry taillights.

A bill devised to strengthen provisions of the workmen's compensation act to the advantage of the workman was approved by a vote of 112 to 3 and sent to the senate.

Under its provisions the industrial commission of Georgia could force insurance companies to write a policy for a person applying for one under the compensation act. The commission likewise would issue permits to a company writing such insurance and firms without permits would not be eligible.

Senate Runs Out of Work.
The senate ran out of work and was forced to adjourn at 1:15 Monday after voting to continue its session until 2 o'clock.

President Redwine explained to the members that the secretary's desk was clear of all bills and resolutions ready for passage. He said it was the first time in his knowledge that a like situation existed.

Before adjourning several bills, mostly of local application, were approved.

The divorce action, based on charges of desertion, was not contested. Mrs. Jenney was granted permission to resume her maiden name.

REPEAL AIMS FAILED, ANTI-SOLON MEET TOLD
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Only one promise of the repeal, made before the repeal of prohibition, has been kept—that to bring drinking into the open, the Rev. Robert S. Tinnon, of Nashville, Tenn., said today at the eighth annual southern convention of the anti-saloon league.

He quoted the statistics he said showed drinking has increased in many American cities since repeal, bootleggers have grown more aggressive, governmental revenue has fallen far short of that promised by repealists, and a promised balance national budget has not materialized.

SEWER DISTRICT BILL INTRODUCED

DeKalb Solons Present Measure Without Support of Fulton Delegation

A bill creating a metropolitan sewer district for Fulton and DeKalb counties was introduced to the legislature Monday by the DeKalb county delegation in the house of representatives.

The Fulton county delegation did not join in the measure. Whether its members will oppose the bill or not could not be learned. No announcement of their stand on the bill came from Representatives William B. Hartfield, Bond Almond or R. L. Ramsey.

The bill presented by the DeKalb group is understood to have been drawn by the Fulton and DeKalb "Better Government Commission" composed of representatives of recent grand juries of the two counties.

At the start of the session it was understood that the full delegation of the two counties in the house and senate would agree on and sponsor together a sewer bill. However, since the session began it has been reported that the sewer bill was being held up because of failure of Atlanta city officials to determine what kind of a bill to offer.

Inasmuch as the legislative courtesy custom is generally followed, it was considered extremely doubtful Monday that the DeKalb delegation's bill had any chance of passage if the Fulton delegation opposed it. Fulton county is more affected by the bill than DeKalb county.

Under the terms of the measure sponsored by Representatives Paul Lindsay, Carl Guess and David Ansley, a board to set up the sewer district and administer facilities after construction was completed would be provided. The bill permits an increase of 1 per cent in water rates for those living in the affected area but additional taxes could be levied if necessary.

Council Monday afternoon referred to the charter revision committee a proposal to increase the rate to Atlanta water users per cent as a sewer service. The measure had the unanimous approval of the sewer committee of council but under council rules had to be passed by the charter revision committee before council could pass on it. Alderman Frank H. Reynolds, chairman of the sewer committee, urged immediate action, but was balked because of the council

New Orleans Forgets Cares For Spectacular Mardi Gras

Bedlam Reigns as Gay Prelude to Today's Riotous Celebration in Parade and Dance.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—New Orleans was a city of bedlam tonight, a foretaste of the carefree abandon of Mardi Gras tomorrow. Thousands crowded the streets, automobiles could scarcely move through dense traffic, souvenir vendors shouted their wares and the city put away its cares for the annual celebration.

Proteus, the first of major street parades, ventured for his den for a glittering night procession. His 20 gaily colorful floats, occupied by maskers tossing favors to cheering thousands, depicted a pageant of "Irish fairy tales."

Proteus, street tableaux, is the first night parade of the season. Negro flambeau bearers precede each float. After winding through several miles of streets, the floats proceed to the municipal auditorium where the maskers disembark for a street procession.

During the general excitement today P. D. Morvant, a retired sugar planter of Thibodaux, La., who was a visitor for carnival, dropped dead in the downtown section after collapsing in the arms of a policeman.

Gay as the city was today, it will not equal the mad hilarity of Mardi Gras Day tomorrow when all of the New Orleans' half million people take to the streets in city-wide masking, singing and dancing.

King Zulu, ruler of the negro population, will arrive in the morning with his fantastic procession. Rex, king of carnival, follows in a magnificent street parade, and the day's gaiety will be climaxed by the night procession of comus.

Both Rex and Comus will hold balls tomorrow night. The gay Mardi Gras celebration officially ends at midnight, when the 40-day lenten period of "sackcloth and ashes" begins.

It probably will be before council for adoption at the March 18 meeting.

SMITH, HARVEY AGAIN IDENTIFIED

Victims in Two Atlanta Robberies Pick Pair Out of Police Lineup.

Georgia's two most notorious bandits, Leland Harvey and Aubrey Smith, were identified in two more holdups Monday afternoon as they faced another police lineup and were viewed by numerous robbery victims.

E. C. Guthrie, manager of the Schulte Cigar Store at Broad and Marietta streets, picked them from seven or eight others as the two men who held him up August 9 and escaped with $23 in cash.

Smith was also identified by H. P. Bullard and Joe Hamilton as one of the two men who robbed a grocery store at 20 Broad street, of $40 on October 22.

Officials of the Bank of Palmetto, which was recently robbed, attended the lineup but did not recognize any of the men.

Harvey and Smith, noted for their many escapes from Georgia's jails, are under bonds of $50,000 each awaiting trial on charges of robbing the City National bank, in Rome, of a $8,000 pay roll August 12. While serving sentences amounting to more than 100 years each last year, they were granted full pardons by Governor Talmadge. Both were arrested earlier this year in Richmond, Va., in possession of elaborate burglar tools and explosives.

Prince of Siam Seeks FERA Aid at College

OXFORD, Ohio, March 4.—(AP)—A prince of the royal house of Siam sought student aid of the federal emergency relief administration rather than return to his agitated native land, Miami University officials made known today after the abdication of King Prajadhipok. Failing to get aid, he followed orders to return to Siam.

The prince is Prasoob Sukhavasi, who became known as Ned Sukhavasi to the Miami University campus. He is a cousin of King Prajadhipok's consort, and a second cousin of the king.

PSYCHOLOGIST SPEAKS AT WESLEY MEMORIAL

"Success" is the subject of a series of lectures being given in the main auditorium of the Wesley Memorial Church building by Judge Frank Cryan, who, according to his own story, arrived in America penniless and without friends and became head of a large New York corporation.

He later was elected a justice in the New York state courts.

The Psychology of Success will be his subject at 8 o'clock tonight and Wednesday night Judge Cryan will speak on "Why Men Succeed." The lectures are free and open to the public.

Starting Thursday, Judge Cryan will deliver talks on various specialized features of "Success," the first of which will be on the converting of abilities into assets.

Immediate increase of personal earnings, developing qualities of success, banishing fear and timidity, good salesmanship, the use of ideas, enthusiasm and other factors regarding the development of personality and ability will be discussed in these special talks.

90TH ANNUAL STATEMENT DECEMBER 31, 1934

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

A MUTUAL COMPANY FOUNDED IN 1845 INCORPORATED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK

To the Policy-holders and the Public:—

On the occasion of the ninetieth annual report of the New York Life, it is fitting to review briefly its record of accomplishment since it began business on April 12, 1845.

Founded when this country was young and sparsely settled, the New York Life has forged steadily ahead, spreading the benefits of its protection over millions of people and contributing, through the investment of its funds, to the Nation's development. Having always been a mutual company, it has declared over one billion dollars in dividends payable to policy-holders. Since 1845 it has met every obligation through every panic, war and epidemic.

During the past year the Company paid or credited $157,000,000 to living policy-holders, and $70,000,000 to the beneficiaries of those who died.

The Company's assets were $2,109,505,224 at the close of 1934, an increase of $98,562,112 over the previous year. The gain in assets during the single year 1934 is greater than the total amount which the Company accumulated in assets during the first forty-four years of its history.

During the year 1934 our investments in Government, State and Municipal Bonds increased $146,918,786. A decrease of $17,000,000 in policy loans and an increase of over $60,000,000 in new insurance issued during the year reflect the general improvement of business in 1934.

The following table shows the diversification of the Company's assets at the end of 1934. All bonds eligible for amortization are carried at their amortized value determined in accordance with the law of the State of New York. All other bonds, including bonds in default, and all guaranteed and preferred stocks, are carried at market value as of December 31, 1934.

Assets	Dec. 31, 1934	Per Cent of each item to Total Assets
Cash on Hand or in Bank	$36,449,562.46	1.73
United States Government, direct, or fully guaranteed Bonds	208,726,056.38	9.89

Interest & Rents Due & Accrued	31,877,282.34	1.51
Other Assets	36,312,838.44	1.72
TOTAL ASSETS	$2,109,505,224.37	100%

The liabilities of the Company, which include reserves to meet all contractual obligations, were $1,994,134,579.

Included in liabilities, the Company has set up a Special Investment Reserve of $28,000,000 not required by law, and reserves of $45,734,207 for dividends payable to policy-holders in 1935.

Surplus funds reserved for general contingencies on December 31, 1934, amounted to $115,370,645. Total insurance in force, represented by 2,649,953 policies, was $6,661,514,072. The total new paid for insurance in 1934 was $440,000,000. In addition, men and women paid $45,000,000 to the Company for annuities to provide a guaranteed life income.

April 12, 1935, marks the Ninetieth Anniversary of the New York Life. In view of its financial strength and its long record of fidelity in the fulfillment of its obligations, this mutual company continues to merit the confidence and patronage of its policy-holders and the public.

INSTALLMENT 1.

While she waited Antoinette remained standing; she was nervous and excited and it seemed easier to stand. The little outer office was dim and vaguely cool in the rainy April morning; it smelled of dust and ink. Except for herself, standing in her spattered brown suit and wet brown shoes at the high dirty window, there was nobody in the place.

There had been an inky shabby cold-looking boy in a suit too small for him idling at the battered desk. But he had disappeared through the glass-topped splintered door marked "Editor-Private," to tell Mr. Lawrence Bellamy, editor of the San Francisco Journal of Commerce and Business, that Miss Antoinette Taft was waiting to see him.

Rain was falling in gray sheets. Traffic crashed and honked on Montgomery street out of sight; electric cars hummed along their tracks. Nothing of this was visible from the window.

The boy returned; Mr. Bellamy would be free in a minute. Antoinette sat down, her heart beating fast, and perforce looked about the bleak characterless waiting room of the Journal. Antoinette had sat waiting in many such rooms in these last four months. She knew their details well—their undecorated walls, their worn linoleum floors, their high dusty windows.

Today the steadily falling rain provided one more note of shadow and uncertainty to her mood which was all shadow and uncertainty. Antoinette was seeking a job; she reflected that jobbery in his senses would give a girl a job on a morning like this.

"You kin go in now," the boy said. Antoinette rose gracefully. In her heart she said, "Mr. Bellamy told him to keep me waiting exactly five minutes. Ha! Just to make himself important."

But when she stepped into the editor's office she revised her opinion. There was a fat young man in a cafe au lait raincoat in the revolving chair opposite that of Lawrence Bellamy.

"I wish you'd let me send you our figures," said this individual engagingly, rising as Antoinette came in.

"I won't," said Mr. Bellamy.

"May I leave you my card?" asked the visitor.

"Sure!" the editor agreed. Antoinette saw the older man, looking in his seat, glance at her card. "Miss Taft," he asked. And as Antoinette merely nodded he twisted the card in a big hand musingly. "Funny thing, my mother's brother was Taft Baldwin."

"They're all good New England names," Antoinette said with a slight effort to seem friendly and at ease.

"Your people from Boston?"

"My father's family was. But his father came around the Horn in 'forty-nine." Antoinette went through the usual little story smilingly. He was still terrified of the editor—any editor, but he was rather less frightened than most of them.

He was dark, his brown face thin, his aquiline large nose gave a sort of automatic significance to his face. Even though he was seated Antoinette knew that he was tall; his hands were big and lean, his mouth large, his dark, thick hair was an untidy tumble and he wore glasses.

"Job, eh?" he began. Antoinette only smiled deprecatingly. "What experience have you had?"

"Not much—on newspapers. I did the social column for the Bulletin for two weeks. That is, I got the stuff. They had someone in the office put it into shape."

"Then what? Fired?"

"Then Margaret Russell—my friend, who had got me into it—came back from her vacation."

"That the only work you ever did?"

"Oh, no." Antoinette smiled ruefully. "I've done lots of other things."

"You'd identify her because she's tall and dark, and she wears her hair—"

Antoinette made a gesture. One always made his gesture in describing Brenda's crown of braids.

"I know; young girl, rather pretty, wears turned-down collars; 'bout 24 or five?"

"That's Brenda. She's really—a little older than that. She's a commercial paper." Now was her time to show that she was an up-to-date business girl, full of bright ideas. She had talked this all over with Brenda last night and formulated the actual phrases she would use in introducing it. But somehow her mouth felt dry and the whole thing seemed flat and impractical. "But this is what I was thinking, Mr. Bellamy," she managed to say: "why shouldn't the Journal have one page of society news and of things interesting to women; recipes and fashions and a puzzle or two—"

Her voice was dying into a suffocated silence under the effect of his narrow smiling look and slowly shaking head; she struggled on. "It might mean that men would take it home to their wives—"

"You mean a patent inside?"

"No." What on earth was a patent inside? "I don't think I mean that," Antoinette faltered.

"We can get all that stuff we want for nothing," Lawrence Bellamy told her.

"You can?" Life was bitter in her mouth but she could seem interested, could manage to smile.

"Sure! But we've got to put on more advertising before we can explain the whole thing to you," the editor said. He proceeded to explain it, illustrating figures with a pencil.

"Now, I'll tell you what I'll do, Miss Taft," Lawrence Bellamy said finally. "I've put a new man on here to rustle up advertising for him two weeks and I don't know how he's going to turn out. I'll give him another week, and then you won't get in on this? I'll tell him to keep whatever he's got and I'll tell him that you're going after the department stores and the milliners and the tea rooms, how's that? You get 40 per cent of what you bring in. The fellow that did have it, Hansen, used to clean up about fifty a week on it."

"And meanwhile—they were standing now—meanwhile I'll ask Mrs. Bellamy what she thinks of any women's stuff in the Journal," the editor said guiding her toward the door. "She gives me pretty good steers sometimes!"

Antoinette bowed a smiling farewell, went out into the dark woody inky hall and waded down the flights to the street. The whole morning had been an utter waste of time.

Rain was still falling; there was no use going home; nobody was there. Aunt Mena would be at the sewing society meeting; Bruce in school, Cliff at the office, Brenda at the store.

Antoinette wandered past the Hall of Justice and the little park, and went idly along the narrow streets of Chinatown. Somehow she was still smarting over the recent interview with the handsome aristocratic editor of the Journal. While they had been talking, he had told her something of his own history. He had graduated very young from Harvard, after some experience on college periodicals, and had become associated with a financial journal in New York, had married almost immediately, had continued in newspaper work ever since. The present venture in San Francisco was new, but already was marked with success. He was only 31 or 32—Antoinette judged—probably less than 10 years older than herself—and was, she thought, so pleased with life, so sure of himself and his job! It was "his idea" to do this, and "his innovation" to do that; he could smile down, he could deprecatingly shake away her poor little suggestions; he was full of suggestions and ideas himself.

After all, she would go home to lunch. She climbed into a car on Market street. Presently she entered the doorway of a dilapidated building that contained eight five-room flats on four floor levels. Steep wooden steps, peeling or paintless, led up from the street that ran for blocks between the shabby and least interesting of the city's dwellings. Almost all the windows had little signs on them, little co-operations of poverty and failure, "Modes," "Jolin Studio," "Rooms," "Home Board," said the signs, patient and fly-specked, yet so sure of their poor little suggestions; he was full of suggestions and ideas himself.

There were no signs on the Taft windows; they were top-floor windows anyway, above the eyes of the crowd. On the right of the narrow entrance hall there was the doorway of a dark bedroom, Antoinette's and Brenda's room, where one must always snap up a light. Lighted, however, it was a pleasant enough room, with a great window on an airshaft that was always open, and an oblique upward view of the sky.

Next to this bedroom with the bathroom, dark and dank, with a smell of ammonia and yellow soap on Friday's when Asterbell came to clean. Then came Aunt Mena's room; a best bedroom in the house, small but bright, for it looked out across the southern city and Twin Peaks, and shared with the sitting room next to the only exposed side of the apartment. No one ever entered Aunt Mena's room except when she was ill, so that it reduced the apartment, strictly speaking, to four rooms. Of these one, on the left side of the hall, was a small back hole originally intended for an occasional servant and now occupied contentedly enough by 17-year-old Bruce, who had a very treasure-house of broken cameras, nails, tools, radio equipment, guns and cartridges on tables, windows, bureau, and in the kitchen. The other was a fair-sized kitchen with a skylight upon whose dusty pane the rain was hammering and dancing as Antoinette came in.

The kitchen clock said 20 minutes past 2. Antoinette made herself a luxurious meal of brown toast and tea. There was a saucer of stewed tomato in the ice box; one sardine. She grilled the sardine, scrambled an egg in the tomato sauce, and presently carried an epicurean tray in to the sitting room window; found her book, The Father Brown Stories, and settled down for an hour of sheer pleasure. The rain, the discouraging, the depressing down town streets, the condition of the family budget were all forgot; Antoinette was in London streets, the dining room and studios, following a shabby case-crock through strange and dramatic adventures.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

The needle of a compass points to the north magnetic pole, which is about 1,500 miles from true north. This magnetic pole was located in 1831 by Sir John Ross. The south magnetic pole was located nearly 100 years later by Sir Ernest Shackleton. In various parts of the world, the compass needle takes different positions with reference to true north. In London it points about 14 degrees west of true north, while in some other parts of the world the declination may be as much as 90 degrees. The amount of declination also varies from time to time at the same place. (The compass in the drawing is at Falmouth.)

II—Days on the Planets.
All the planets in our solar system get their "daylight" from the sun.

The far planets twist faster than those closer to the sun. Uranus turns once in 10 hours and 40 minutes; and Saturn rotates in a few minutes less.

We are not so sure about the turning period of Neptune; but it seems to be about 16 hours and 40 minutes. Jupiter, largest of our planets, twists in less than 10 hours. Daylight on Jupiter lasts not quite five hours, and the night the same.

Mars has a longer day than the earth—about 24 minutes more daylight and about 20 minutes more darkness.

Venus, the earth's sister planet, is covered by a great mass of clouds or mists. For this reason, we do not know the length of day and night on Venus. Sometimes Venus is farther away than the sun, more than 150,000,000 miles from the earth. The planet may then be seen through a telescope at night, and looks like a far-away full moon. When it comes closer, it looks more like a half-moon or quarter moon.

The small planet, Mercury has a very long day. Indeed it seems always to keep the same side toward the sun! This must mean that the other side is cold and dark.

The twisting motion gives day and night to the planets. It is different from the motion which takes the planets on great trips around the sun.

15 FELONY CASES DISPOSED OF HERE

Many Youths Sentenced in Record Monday in Fulton Superior Court.

Monday, usually a light day in the criminal division of Fulton superior court, yesterday established a new record, a total of 23 cases including 15 felonies being disposed of.

An array of white youths ranging from 15 to 21 years of age pleaded guilty to sundry offenses, one of them being Judge G. H. Howard to "let him do some time" as he thought it would help him. James LeRoy Smith, 22, admitted that he committed a 58-cent burglary of R. J. Leaver, lunchroom at 313 Boulevard, S. E., February 16, and Judge Howard gave him 15 months to two years after he had said he did not want to be released.

A like sentence was imposed on Jack Dodson, 17, when he admitted a $150 burglary of a store on Woodward avenue. Dodson will be sent to the state prison, term, and Judge Howard expressed the hope that the youth will there be taught how to "work and like it." City Detectives Campbell and Evans told the court that at the time of the burglary Dodson was seen entering the place by a neighbor who told his mother, and that the mother made her son surrender to the police. The detectives said that the mother had told them the boy is "not bright" and it took him five years to make one grade in grammar school.

A 15-year-old white youth, Bonnie Berry, was given a five-year sentence at the state farm when he pleaded guilty to larceny from Sunlite Aquarium, the office of Mrs. Mary R. Stallings in Atlanta National Bank building, and the home of Mrs. W. T. Milner, 454 Piedmont avenue. Berry had conspired with a partner, a coat and a fountain pen, and was ordered to the prison farm upon recommendation of the superintendent of the Boys' Industrial farm, where he had previously been sent for other crimes. He will serve until he is of age, subject to dismissal by the authorities.

Woodward Brackett, an 18-year-old youth, pleaded guilty to larceny from automobiles owned by G. L. Holcomb and S. J. Baker, and was given six months to follow a sentence previously imposed in criminal court of Fulton county, which had been suspended, but was reinstated after his arrest on the auto theft charges. J. L. Wilkerson, indicted also in the theft of the Baker car, was given a like sentence to follow a similar sentence.

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy by following this simple plan. A small box of Barbo Compound and one-half ounce of glycerine will cost you only this up or you can mix it yourself at a week until the desired shade is obtained. Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or salt hair, makes it shine and soft. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. (Adv.)

Hubby's 'Baby' Plaintiff Explained by Amelia

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Take it from Amelia Earhart (Putnam), the world's first solo female pilot, that she has a "baby" in her.

As she took off from Hawaii on her Pacific flight last January was not in the role of "frustrated husband."

Here's how Amelia explained it today: "As he mopped his brow, figuratively speaking, he said he'd rather go through that experience, than go through what he was going through. My husband has been busy ever since, writing letters denying he's a frustrated husband."

Amelia Earhart, 35, was given one year, two months, and five days in the case of Brackett.

George Mitchell, 19, admitted theft of a car from St. Kenneth and was given one to two years. W. T. Fowler pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile from A. L. Moss and was given one to two years.

Wilbur Yother, 18, pleaded guilty to the holdup robbery of F. W. Johnson, of 918 Pryor street, S. W., February 23, in which $35 and Johnson's watch were taken. He was given six to 10 years on the chain gang by Judge Howard.

Older men brought before the court on serious charges included James Duffy, 43, who admitted the $13 robbery of Roy Smith, manager of Kessler's store at 555 Whitehall street, February 21, and was given 12 to 20 years. The bandit entered the store and when informed that it was closing time, replied: "You're not closing this is a stick-up." Duffy told the court he had been a dope addict for 23 years.

Genie Mitchell, a negro, was found guilty by a jury of robberies of R. A. Silverman's store at 238 E. Wood avenue in which $152 was taken, and a 15-year-old negro, who was given 11 months for a $16 burglary from a residence. John Walter McClure, negro, got 15 months to two years for a burglary at the store of J. H. Griffith, and James Johnson, negro, got a like sentence for burglary of an alarm clock at the home of Ed Terrell.

Robert Hood, negro, was given 11 months for a $16 burglary from a residence. John Walter McClure, negro, got 15 months to two years for a burglary at the store of J. H. Griffith, and James Johnson, negro, got a like sentence for burglary of an alarm clock at the home of Ed Terrell.

TAMMADGE, HOUSE

SPLIT OVER TAXES

Rivers Takes Issue With Move To Eliminate All Ad Valorem Levies.

governor told him that if the Pope plan is submitted to the people and ratified that he will call the legislature into special session in November or December next year to provide taxes to make up for the revenue lost.

Backs Sales Tax. While the ad valorem tax situation was holding the center of attention at the capitol the house ways and means committee was hearing Speaker Rivers ask for committee approval of his proposed sales tax and a number of leading businessmen from the state, headed by J. P. Allen, of Atlanta, representing the Georgia Retail Merchants' Association, oppose it.

The committee, which has had the sales tax under advisement, will vote on the bill today. Committee approval of the sales tax is considered a foregone conclusion.

It was held up as a "poor man's tax" by a retail attack on this method of raising government revenue by A. Steve Nance, former president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

Retail merchants from other cities appeared before the house ways and means committee in opposition to the tax and other citizens spoke in its behalf.

Continuance Deceased. Defeating, 16 to 11, a motion for continuance by Representative W. D. Janney, of Augusta, of the tax, the committee voted to act on the bill in closed session today without further hearings.

It was invited, however, to speak against the proposal which is being considered for inclusion in the general tax act.

Those heard on the tax Monday included Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house, a sales tax expert; Mrs. Katherine Connors, of Atlanta, vice president of the Georgia Women's Democratic Club, who said she favored it; Mr. Allen, an Atlanta merchant; Henry Estes, a Gainesville merchant; and Nance, all of whom fought it.

Nance said 90,000 unemployed would have to pay the tax in this state and that the 5 percent rate on retail sales would be the equivalent of a 10 percent cut in wages.

The statement that it was a "poor man's tax" was branded as ridiculous by Rivers, who advocates the tax as the base revenue-raising tax from the state to supplant the ad valorem (property) levy.

MAJOR SENATOR FAVORS TAX RELIEF ON HOMES. MASON, Ga., March 4.—(AP)—A plan for tax exemption of homes up to $2,500 and household furniture up to $500 with reasonable compensatory advances in the state's income tax regulation, was endorsed today by Senator W. D. Cooper, Jr., of this city, before leaving for Atlanta to return to the general assembly. The state senator urged a tax against chain stores in Georgia.

He favored the continued exemption bill pending in the state senate," he said. "I favor a gross income tax of 10 percent, with exemptions sufficient to take care of the small wage earners and small farmers."

"The present income tax law in this state is a farce, for the reason that the exemptions are so liberal upon the net income tax that only a few are affected by its terms."

"I am opposed to the sales tax, I believe in leaving the poor people alone. I will not favor any new form of taxation except as a substitute for the loss of revenue allowed in homestead exemption and reduction of taxes on other real estate."

15-Mile Paving Job Invalidated by Court

Invalidating the three-year-old contract under which Y. C. Pickering, former state senator, constructed 15 miles of paving east of Chatsworth, the Georgia supreme court Monday ruled that the work was done without authority.

The court based its decision on the fact that there is no recorded contract between Pickering and Murray county, where the construction took place. Pickering was named agent of Murray county several years ago, with full charge of the project, when the county connected with the state highway department to build the road.

The case had been previously reviewed by the high court, and had been in litigation many months. State Senator G. Roy McGinty enjoined Pickering more than a year ago and attempted to impose a $105,000 fine on the contractor. The injunction was dissolved by Judge Claude Pittman and his decision was sustained at the time by the supreme court.

The Murray county case was reversed, however, on a rehearing.

comprehended West's plan in its entirety. There was only one hope to frustrate it—East might not grasp the situation. Declarer led the six of clubs from dummy at trick two and East was caught flat-footed in failing to put up the king he spoiled a carefully planned defense. West was obliged to win and had nothing better to play for than a short heart suit in East's hand. The ace and a small heart failed to give East a ruff. Declarer won the second heart trick in his own hand and in fear of a third round heart ruff led the ten of spades to induce West to duck with a holding of ace and one small one. West was not to be deceived. He went up with the ace and led another heart, but it was too late. East had no more trumps.

2—South's hand is worthless on defense. Nevertheless this bid cannot be recommended.

3—West refuses to sacrifice because he expects to defeat the contract.

The Play. West had very carefully planned the defense from the very minutes that the four-spade bid was made. He intended to open a diamond and subsequently underlead his ace of clubs to secure a diamond ruff and together with his three aces would be enough to defeat the contract.

Declarer regarded the diamond triple lead as a disaster. East's leading of the clubs was predicated upon a minor two suiter, a belief confirmed by the opening lead, obviously a singleton. In much less time than it takes to relate, South gives the aching part support. The medication is absorbed and relieves the painful congestion.

Red Cross Plasters need be worn only till relief is at hand... or they may be kept on for several days when it "feels good" to do this. They never burn or blister the skin. They come off easily. There is no muss or fuss. Nothing else is needed. They never interfere with work or play.

The millions of Johnson's Red Cross Plasters used every year are made by Johnson & Johnson, the world's largest makers of surgical dressings. All drug stores sell them and they may be identified by the Red Cross emblem. Adv.

Mr. Culbertson will be very glad to answer questions on bridge. Please enclose a stamped (3-cent), self-addressed envelope and address your question to Ely Culbertson, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

With the South hand as declarer there are three trump in the layout? See tomorrow's article for the explanation.

Insull's State Trial Opens at Chicago

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP)—Samuel Insull, who used to account to his stockholders for billions, was called to account by the state today for $86,000. Technicalities were waived aside by Judge Cornelius J. Higgins in criminal court and selection of a jury was begun to try Insull for the alleged embezzlement of just $86,000 from the $300,000,000 Middle West Utilities Company. He did it, the state said, to bolster the depreciating brokerage account of his brother Martin.

Prison Cornerstone Is To Be Laid July 4

LYONS, Ga., March 4.—(AP)—B. H. McLarty, editor of the Lyons Progress, said today that arrangements were being made to lay the cornerstone of the new federal-financed prison building near Reidsville on July 4. McLarty is head of the local committee for arrangements for the cornerstone celebration.

Spring Will Bring Stork To Homes

Bring Half Dozen Hollywood Stars

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 4.—(AP) Spring will bring the stork to at least half a dozen Hollywood homes, and it wishes count for anything, boys will predominate in the new crop of movie stars.

Perhaps the only exception to the desire for boys is Norma Shearer, actress wife of Irving Thalberg, producer. They already have a boy, Irving Jr., and friends believe Miss Shearer will be well satisfied if her next is a girl.

A boy is ardently hoped for by Gloria Stuart, wife of Arthur Sheekman, movie writer. Along with Miss Shearer, she has retired temporarily from the screen.

A boy is ardently hoped for by home of Guy Kibbee, retired comedian.

The Kibbees already have a girl. Mrs. Kibbee is not an actress.

Mervyn LeRoy, brilliant young director whose marriage last year to Doris Warner, producer, was a social event in New York, is also on the list of those preferring boys.

But Richard Dix doesn't care. The actor and his wife, Virginia Webster, have built an elaborate nursery replete with mechanical gadgets. They will welcome a boy or a girl impartially.

Jack Durant, of the comedian team of Mitchell and Durant, also is somewhat impartial, but he boasts that if it is a boy he will kick it around the house—playfully of course—with as much glee as he kicks Mitchell in the back.

JOHNSON ATTACKS LONG, COUGHLIN

General Says Combination Presents Serious Danger to U. S. System.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(UP)—General Hugh S. Johnson tonight invoked the invective of his Blue Eagle days to "crack down" on two "shadow" figures who have "fallen athwart" America's faith in Franklin D. Roosevelt—the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin and Senator Huey P. Long.

Addressing a dinner gathering in his honor, the former NRA chief laid down a brimstone fire against the radio priest and the dictator of the delta, whom he described as leaders of the "emotional fringe" of United States politics.

"The danger from that group is that any desperate person is a potential candidate to join it," said Johnson. "If you have a desperate man, he will pout and, if occasion offers, run away from home with any enticing lure that comes along."

"Counting business, the unemployed, large segments of farmers not yet helped and the dependents of all these, there are about 80,000,000 abused babies in this country—their ears still tingling from the worst economic boxing in history. They are ready to strike back at disaster in any way that is shown to them."

"You can laugh at Father Coughlin—you can snort at Father Coughlin—but this country will never order a greater menace than from the break-up of that spontaneous popular co-operation being engineered by the combination of this dangerous demagogue with the direct assault of the old social Neanderthals—the architects of the 1920 boom and bust."

Johnson interjected an explanation that "nobody in the administration has been consulted about this speech," and that his wisest friends outside the government counseled against his attacking Long and Coughlin.

"If demagoguery has reached a point where a man may risk his public standing by attacking it, it is time for somebody to get up on his hind legs and howl," he rasped.

"I am well aware what the papers will say about me—that I am crazy—that I once worked in New York myself, that I am a tool of the interests. Nerds to that!"

Then, with broadly caricatured passages in southern accent in imitation of the kingfish, Johnson tore into Long's "share the wealth" program. "Share the wealth" would do no more than "distribute poverty," Johnson declared.

"And added to that comes burrowing over the air the dripping brogue of the Irish-Canadian priest—pounding home points of pure political propaganda by calling on the lives and sayings of all the saints and the very precepts of the Master in accents molten with human sympathy—musical blatant bunk from the very rostrum of religion. . . . Father Coughlin's plan to make money out of nothing would make money worth nothing—and that would confiscate the wages of every worker, the saving of every family, the life insurance of every widow."

Two in Alliance.

"The founder of Christianity likened the church to a net containing good and bad fish. . . . Father Coughlin, by the cheap strategy of appealing to the envy of those who have nothing for those who have something, has become the active political head of an active political party. . . . and I think that makes him another bad fish in the net of the holy church."

Johnson asserted there is an "open alliance between the great Louisiana demagogue and the political padre."

He charged Coughlin had been an enemy of the administration since publication by the treasury department a year ago of a list showing that the Radio League of the Little Flower was a large holder of silver.

"When a priest vowed to poverty," Johnson continued, "and preaching to the poor flays the faith of a people to advance a monetary interest—his own or another—you can just about conclude that Judas Iscariot was a poor piker."

"We can neither respect nor reverse what appears to be a priest in holy orders. . . . demanding that we ditch the present for Huey Long, bastardize our American system and destroy the government of our country."

Indiana House Passes Beer, Liquor Control

INDIANAPOLIS, March 4.—(AP)—Indiana's proposed new beer and liquor control law was passed by the house of the state general assembly this afternoon by a vote of 76 to 22 and sent to the senate for further action.

The bill in its present form provides for a five-man commission to administer the law and for separate licenses for retail beer, whisky and wine dealers. Wholesalers would be permitted to import out-of-state beer and whisky and roadhouses and rural night clubs are banned. It also provides for all-day closing of retail outlets on Sundays. The measure reduces the tax on hard liquors from 25 cents a pint to 12 1/2 cents a pint and on beer from 5 cents a gallon to 3 1/3 cents a gallon.

YEOMANS AND MOORE WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

M. J. Yeomans, attorney-general of Georgia, and Wiley Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will be the speakers at the annual alumni meeting of the Atlanta Opportunity school to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the school, corner of Spring and Baker streets.

Mr. Yeomans will speak on the outstanding issues in vocational education and Mr. Moore's subject will be the requirements which industry and business are demanding of the worker of today and the contribution which education can make to his greater efficiency.

Atlantan Who Aided Walter Reed In Fight on Yellow Fever Dies Here

James Hildebrand, one of the associates of Major Walter Reed in his valiant fight to conquer the ravages of yellow fever, died Monday afternoon at the United States Veterans Hospital No. 48, on Peachtree road. He was 80.

Many years ago Mr. Hildebrand, serving in the medical corps of the United States army in the Philippine Islands, volunteered to let a fever-infested mosquito bite him. It meant almost sure death.

Major Reed was at that time just perfecting the serum to counteract yellow fever and the Atlantan was one of the few who dared to risk death to aid science and humanity.

Mr. Hildebrand recovered from the fever which then took thousands of lives annually in epidemics that swept away whole towns but which now is controlled by medical science, due to the courage of those pioneers.

Later, the native Atlantan went to Cuba and served under General Gorgas in stamping out yellow fever on that island. He served 25 years in the medical corps, and for his exceptional valor and a service to science he was awarded a Congressional medal.

He resided in Atlanta most of his life after he retired from the army. He had been ill for some time and had been confined to the hospital since Christmas.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Pearl Hildebrand and Mrs. Ruby Hildebrand Watts, and a son, Earl Q. Hildebrand, all of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

N. Y. LIFE REPORTS 2 BILLION ASSETS

Increase in 1934 Totaled $98,562,112, President Says.

Assets of the New York Life Insurance Company on December 31, 1934, totaled $2,100,505,224, an increase of $98,562,112 over the previous year, it was stated Monday by Thomas A. Buckner, president of the company, in the New York Life's annual statement which appears elsewhere in The Constitution.

The gain in assets during the single year 1934 is greater than the total amount of assets accumulated by the company during the first 44 years of its history.

In the assets all bonds eligible for amortization are carried at their amortized value determined in accordance with the laws of the state of New York. All other bonds, including bonds in default, and all guaranteed and preferred stocks, are carried at market value as of December 31, 1934.

During 1934 the New York Life increased its holdings of government, state and municipal bonds by $146,918,786. Investments on December 31, 1934, in United States government, direct, or fully guaranteed bonds were $208,726,056, or 9.9 per cent of total assets. State, county and municipal bonds totaled $191,270,360, or 9.1 per cent of total assets. Cash on hand or in bank amounted to $36,449,582.

The company also reported investments of $159,151,938 in public utility bonds, $341,910,539 in railroad bonds, $450,805,821 in first mortgages on city properties, and $396,467,101 in policy loans.

A decrease of $17,000,000 in policy loans and an increase of over $90,000,000 in new insurance issued during the year reflects the general improvement of business in 1934," said President Buckner.

Liabilities of the company, which include reserves to meet all contractual obligations, were $1,994,134,579. The company voluntarily set up and included in its liabilities a special investment reserve of $28,000,000 and also set aside reserves of $45,734,207 for dividends payable to policyholders in 1935.

Surplus funds reserved for general contingencies on December 31, 1934, amounted to $115,370,645.

Total insurance in force, represented by 2,649,953 policies, was $8,681,514,072. New insurance issued in 1934 amounted to $440,000,000 and in addition men and women paid $45,000,000 to the company for annuities to provide a guaranteed life income.

During 1934 the New York Life paid or credited $157,000,000 to living policyholders and an increase of over $90,000,000 in new insurance issued during the year reflects the general improvement of business in 1934," said President Buckner.

Glass Predicts Relief Agreement After Conference at White House

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—Prediction of an early break in the senate deadlock over the administration's $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill was made today by Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, after a talk with President Roosevelt.

Simultaneously Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, told reporters the time had arrived when the appropriations committee should proceed with consideration of the $4,880,000,000 relief bill. This indicated the administration was ready for another test of the wage issue, though Robinson would not reply to questions on this point.

Glass, who is chairman of the appropriations committee, said he expected to call the committee together tomorrow afternoon or the day after.

"Some matters have been considered," he said, "that I think ought to be brought to the attention of the committee and of the senate."

"Nothing has been agreed upon. However, I apprehend that a meeting of the committee will be held certainly not later than the day after tomorrow to settle the thing one way or another."

The Virginian seemed in genial mood as he left a lengthy conference with the president, who has stood pat throughout the senate contest over the prevailing wage amendment inserted over his opposition.

policyholders and $70,000,000 to the beneficiaries of those who died.

In his letter to the policyholders and the public, President Thomas A. Buckner says: "Founded when this country was young and sparsely settled, the New York Life has forged steadily ahead, spreading the benefits of its protection over millions of people and contributing, through the investment of its funds, to the nation's development. Having always been a mutual company, it has declared over $1,000,000,000 in dividends payable to policyholders. Since 1845 it has met every obligation through every panic, war and epidemic."

LEGS NOT PROOF OF KEETON DEATH

Son Testifies He Does Not Know Whether She Is Dead or Not.

LAUREL, Miss., March 4.—(AP)—Attorneys conducting the prosecution against Ouida Keeton today succeeded in proving that her mother, whom she is charged with murdering, is missing but they had not proved legally their contention that she is dead.

In an effort to establish a "corpus delicti" the state offered as evidence photographs of the legs and lower torso of a woman's body, which it claims is Mrs. Keeton's.

The legs were found several weeks ago and tentatively identified as those of the missing 52-year-old woman, who was said by witnesses to have disappeared January 19. When the daughter, a 33-year-old stenographer, was arrested later, she told police she had seen her mother slain by W. M. Carter, 67, a Laurel business man.

Carter denied the charge but police held him and Miss Keeton jointly for murder, and indictments on that count were returned against them.

Clever Invitations Are Issued To Saddle and Sirloin Members

By Sally Forth.

CLEVER indeed are the invitations issued Monday to that band of sportive equestrians, known as the Saddle and Sirloin Club. The novel party will be given Saturday, March 9, and the hosts are members of the Biltmore Riding Club, who have planned a variety of entertainments for their guests. The picturesque ring at the Biltmore Riding School will provide the setting. Those who do not care to participate in the many surprise stunts, Sally is informed, will enjoy a canter through lovely wooded trails of the beautiful Rivers estate on which the ring is located.

Sally is elated over her invitation to the party where Atlanta's skilled horsemen and horsewomen will gather. Although a novice in horsemanship, she eagerly plans to don her riding suit and be amongst the onlookers. And she will most assuredly not miss the wiener roast after the events. The clever invitation reads as follows:

"If in horsemanship you're an adept,
Our invitation you will please accept,
On next Saturday at two in the afternoon
Your entertainment we'll try to assume.
To Jerusalem we may let you go,
Or indulge in an informal show,
But if your courage in these do fail
You may amble through a woodland trail.
We greatly desire to be your host
At an honest-to-goodness wiener roast."

IT SEEMS that there are times when orders just must be disobeyed. Not because one has a natural inclination to be disobedient, but because certain occasions eminently justify it. As an instance, Mrs. Frank Holland especially requested that there be no wedding presents for her marriage this morning to Dr. Ross Cox, of Rome. But in addition to all the friends who felt the happy urge to send gifts, there are several organizations with which she has been so closely allied and to which she has meant so much, that they could not resist the impulse. All Atlanta knows how she planned and worked for the organization of the Atlanta Council of Girl Scouts, and how she has been its guardian angel, so to speak, ever since. So the members of the council, who all fairly adore her, just could not resist sending "Miss Julia" a gift. They chose a handsome silver server of the new rose point pattern.

No more could the Woman's Guild of All Saints church resist sending a present, for Mrs. Holland is the only treasurer the guild has ever had, and a perfect wizard she has been in handling its finances. The guild members chose a gorgeous silver bowl to match the server.

When the auxiliary to the Henrietta Eggleston hospital was formed, the members chose Mrs. Holland as their first president. And never has she been too busy or too weary to give of her time and talents to any activity they have sponsored. In recognition for such service and the deep devotion inspired by Mrs. Holland, the auxiliary sent her as a wedding gift a beautiful silver platter. They, too, could not resist disobeying orders.

As the bride of Dr. Cox, Mrs. Holland will return to her girlhood home to live. What greater fortune could befall the city of Rome than to reclaim such a beloved citizen?

LUNCH SCHOOL and kitchen showers don't jibe somehow.

Episcopal Churches Plan Many Classes For Lenten Study

Lent, the annual observance for 40 days of study, contemplation of God, the deepening and strengthening of spiritual life, begins Ash Wednesday, March 6, and continues through Good Friday, April 19, culminating in the highest festival of the church year, Easter, April 21.

The women of the Episcopal church will study one of two subjects suggested by the national church, "Japan" or "Orientals in America." Through the entire 40 days the theme will be "The Discipleship of Christ, the turning from self to the better understanding and knowledge of others." Under the subject of "Japan" there are many courses being chosen, "Suzuki Looks at Japan," "Typhoon Days in Japan," "Japanese Women Speak" and "Kagawa" being among the most popular.

St. Cecilia's chapter and the mother's chapter of the Cathedral of St. Philip will meet Wednesday, March 6, at 3 o'clock to begin their study. Mrs. Allan Gray will lead the class. Each member will answer the roll call with a current event item about Japan. Mrs. J. M. Flanigan will lead the classes for St. Timothy's Woman's Auxiliary in East Lake, beginning Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. John E. Heard, first vice president of the Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary, will give the first lesson on the course to the Auxiliary-Guild of St. John's church, College Park, Thursday, March 7, at 3 o'clock. For the bishop's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary the following chairmen will discuss the subject: Mrs. Ben W. Hargrave, Miss Vera Jones, Mrs. Helen Myles Lamar, Miss Ellen DeSaussure, Miss Fay Bowman and Miss Dorothy Hinman. Each will take a Friday evening during Lent for their class.

At Holy Trinity, Decatur, Mrs. William Keller will be the leader for St. Mary's Circle; Mrs. A. G. Harland for St. Catherine's Circle; Mrs. J. C. LeHardy, who has been to Japan, for St. Anne's Circle; Mrs. J. E. Coleman for St. Agnes' Circle. These will meet each Tuesday during Lent for classes.

Other leaders for the other auxiliaries of the churches will be announced later.

Mrs. Ralph Worthington's aperitif party on Sunday at Bay Terrace, her Brickell avenue home, was graced by Louise and Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, who is chaperoning her daughter in Miami. Invitations galore have kept Mrs. Calhoun and Louise on the go ever since they went to Miami two weeks ago. Several lovely pictures of Louise have been published in the newspaper, which declare her to be an outstanding winter visitor.

Atlanta Music Club Announces Lenten Hymn for Study in March

The hymn of the month for March as suggested for study by the department of music in religious education of the Atlanta Music Club and the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs, Nana Tucker, chairman, is "In the Hour of Trial," a widely loved Lenten hymn, used generally by churches of all denominations.

James Montgomery's well-known hymn of penitence, "In the Hour of Trial," to which he first gave the name "The Look from Christ," depicts in poetic form all the graphic, sad detail of Peter's denial of his Lord that is so vividly portrayed on canvas in the famous painting by Harnack, "The Denial of Peter." In the poetry of the hymn, the first stanza refers to the suffering of Jesus at the trial, and the impetuous disciples' faithlessness and subsequent anguish. In the second stanza is the prayer to be kept from temptation of worldliness; in the third, the hand of God may be seen through all sorrow, toil and pain; and in the fourth is the thought of triumph over death.

James Montgomery, a Scotsman of Irish descent, born in 1771, was the son of a Moravian minister, who sent him at an early age to the Moravian school in Yorkshire to be educated for the ministry. His two years at the school led him to imitate them as he would become a minister. On the contrary, he edited for years a paper of revolutionary tendencies, which made his life anything but calm. His poetic genius was of high order; enough so for him to have been considered as poet laureate. As a hymnist he ranks with Wesley, Watts and Doddridge. Among his finest hymns are "Angels from the Realms of Glory," "According to Thy Gracious Word," "Prayer is the Soul's Sincere Desire," and "In the Hour of Trial." The hymn tune, Penitence, by Spencer Lane written in 1870 for the Hetchins Hymnal, seems peculiarly fitted to the words, and so far as we know, is never used by any other hymn.

The words of the hymn are as follows:

In the hour of trial,
Lent by base denial;
I depart from Thee,
When Thou seest me water.
With a look recall,
Nana Tucker, chairman,
Suffer me to fall.

With forbidden pleasures
Would this vain world charm,
Or its social treasures
Seduce me from Thy arm.
Bring to my remembrance
Thou art my Father,
Or in darker semblance
Cross-crowned Calvary.

Should Thy mercy send me
From this world of sin;
Or should path attend me
On my path below;
Grant that I may never
Fall Thy hand to see;
Last my care on Thee.

When my last hour cometh,
Fraught with strife and pain,
When my spirit breatheth
To Thy right again,
On Thy truth relying,
Through that mortal strife,
Jesus, take me, dying,
To eternal life.

SMITHIES FOES OF GREENBRIER IN FIRST GAME

Sixteen Crack Quintets Enter Prep Tourney at Lexington.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 4.—(AP) Sixteen crack quintets have been invited to participate in the South Atlantic prep school basketball tournament which will be held in Doremus gymnasium at Washington and Lee Thursday through Saturday.

The list includes six teams from Virginia, four from North Carolina, South Carolina and one each from Georgia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Two of the contestants, John Marshall High of Richmond and Jefferson High of Roanoke, will settle a race of their own for the Virginia scholastic title in an encounter at Roanoke Wednesday night on the evening before the start of the tournament here on Thursday.

The Charlotte, N. C., basketball, winners of the 1934 contest, will meet formidable opposition in the opening round Thursday afternoon in Eastern High of Washington, District of Columbia, champions and one of the four seeded teams. The other three are Raleigh (N. C.) High, Tech High of Atlanta, and Staunton Military Academy.

Pairing for the eight games Thursday are as follows: Charlotte (N. C.) High vs. Eastern High of Washington; Raleigh (N. C.) High vs. Staunton (Va.) Military school; Tech High of Atlanta vs. Greenbrier Military school; Staunton Military Academy vs. Charleston (S. C.) High; John Marshall High of Richmond vs. Asheville (N. C.) High; Spartanburg (S. C.) High vs. Virginia Presbyterian; Danville, Augusta Military Academy vs. Bethesda-Cherry Chase High of Maryland; Jefferson High of Roanoke vs. Asheville School for Boys; Bun Hackney, formerly a star athlete at the University of North Carolina, and Andrew R. "Snooks" Winters, formerly of the University of Florida, and now a resident of Huntington, W. Va., will officiate.

Smithies Leave Today for Meet.

Tech High's basketball team, feted last night by Coach and Mrs. Jake Tolbert, will leave this morning for Lexington, Va., where they will participate in Washington and Lee's annual tournament.

The tournament, which was won last year by a Washington team, brings together teams from the southeast. The 16 best teams are selected and Tech High is given an excellent chance to win.

The banquet last night was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tolbert and the boys gave, according to Professor Cheney, "as good an account of themselves at the table as they had on the basketball floor."

Bronze trophies were presented to the boys by Coach Tolbert and Assistant Coach M. A. Olson.

Tech High had a championship season and the friends and students of Tech High will watch the play of the team with interest as it competes in the Lexington tournament.

BRITISH DRIVER MAY GO TODAY

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell today postponed a possible assault on his own world's automobile speed record of 272.108 miles per hour, when he decided the ocean speedway was too rough. He may make another run tomorrow.

Sir Malcolm made a careful examination of the beach from start to finish and reported that the beach between the third and fifth mile markers was too soft for safety.

"I would be foolish to try it today," the British racer said, "because the drag in the mile before the measured (sixth) mile is even heavier than it was yesterday. Furthermore I have a limited number of tires and I don't care to waste them on an unfit beach."

Campbell has but 36 racing cords left, just enough for three more record runs. He uses six on each trip each way—12 per complete test.

City officials disagreed with Campbell as to the condition of the beach. They said it was faster today, but Campbell insisted upon waiting at least until tomorrow.

Green Wave Loses Bryan Backfield Star

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP)—Tulane's powerful football team will miss the backfield prowess of "Bucky" Bryan this year.

Bryan, university authorities announced, resigned from school because he could not keep up with his scholastic duties and continue football training. He said he planned a business career.

Bryan, recently elected captain of the 1935 eleven, will be succeeded as captain by Barney Mintz, another backfield star.

Frick Is on Tour Of Major Camps

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(AP)—Starting a tour of major league baseball training camps, Ford C. Frick, president of the National league, arrived in Los Angeles today.

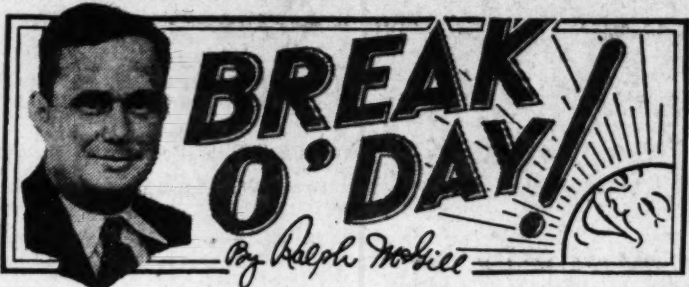

Accompanied by Mrs. Frick, the executive landed from the liner Santa Elena from New York. While in southern California, Frick will visit the Chicago Cubs at Catalina Island and the Pittsburgh Pirates at Pasadena.

Stengel Clocks Speeding Dodgers

ORLANDO, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Armed with a stop watch, Stengel clocked a near-by race track. Casey Stengel sent the Brooklyn Dodgers racing around the base paths today.

Johnny Babich and Van Munro, veteran pitchers, and Bob Logan, a rookie hurler, tied for first, each circling the sacks in 16 seconds.

Another rookie up from Davenport, Iowa, turned in the next fastest time of 16 1-4 seconds.

"I was just a boob," read the ribbon.

It was a Chicago paper and the drop head explained that it was Mr. David Henry Barry who thus accused himself.

Mr. Barry was in criminal court charged with being a party to a scheme which the state charged involved the embezzlement of the modest sum of $54,473.28. Mr. Barry insisted that he was just a boob and did not know what was going on and the court, after hearing the evidence, decided he was right and released him on a verdict of acquittal.

The David Henry Barry who was thus in court happened to be the Dave Barry who was in the ring the night of September 22, at Chicago in 1927 when Jack Dempsey clouted James Joseph Tunney on the sideburns and caused the said James Joseph Tunney to sit down sharply on the heels of his pants, a pained, vague, surprised look on his face.

The aforementioned Jack Dempsey leaped into his corner but Dave Barry took him by the arm and motioned him to a neutral corner and then turned to take up the count over the fallen Tunney.

Now, this was a very important evening because the said Tunney was the heavyweight champion of the world and 90 per cent of those at the ringside resented the fact very deeply.

And during the time when Dave Barry, obeying the rules very strictly, shoved Dempsey to a neutral corner, the cobwebs went out of Tunney's brain, his eyes cleared and he took the count of nine and then got onto his bike, so to speak, and went away from there.

He had been given what amounted to about 14 seconds of rest instead of exactly nine. And you may get up a good, rousing argument at any crossroad store or uptown tavern today by bringing up this subject. There are those who will fight you for their right to say that Dempsey really won the fight because Tunney could not have got up in nine seconds.

When it was all over and Tunney had won by a wide margin on points, he declared he was never out of his senses but was merely waiting to get up when the referee had counted nine.

He remained carefully away from the right hand of Jack Dempsey thereafter. And the Dempsey legs, being wobbly as legs go, could not chase him down. There was no better boxer than Tunney and he probably deserved the title at that.

But no one will ever know the truth of how things were that night.

Dave Barry came in for some very severe criticism despite the fact he was obeying the rules. Dempsey was at fault in the matter but it was Barry who caught the tirade of abuse from the Dempsey patrons.

EIGHT LONG YEARS AGO. Well, that was eight long years ago and considerable water has slid under the bridges since then. And there is no telling what would have happened had Dempsey won the title again that night.

Let's see. Estelle Taylor was Mrs. Dempsey then. She isn't any more. She was a film star then. She isn't now. At least she isn't up in the lights as she was. Dempsey is in the restaurant business in New York, just across from Madison Square Garden. He has a new wife and a new baby, a daughter. He's healthy, his head is all right and he's back up in the chips again. Not as high as of yore. But he's up there.

The long count was the greatest break he ever got. The last time he was through Atlanta he said.

"It was the best break I ever got," he said. "If I'd won I'd have fought some more. I might have got punched drunk. I would have fought two or three fellows. Max Schmeling maybe. And then I'd have had to meet Tunney again. I couldn't have lasted very long. The legs were gone. As it is now everyone feels I got the worst of it. Maybe I did. I never felt the count was right. But at that it was lucky for me. People still regard me as the champion."

And I think he was lucky. He still commands the crowds. They have never wearied of Dempsey. And he, as always, never appears bored or worried by pests or crowds. The public made him. It still supports him. He's grateful.

MAN, THAT WAS AN ERA.

Man, that was an era. When Dempsey was king. There was Dempsey, knocking them over in the ring. And there was Babe Ruth banging home runs, 60 in a season. And there was Bobby Jones winning golf titles. Bill Tilden was heading the tennis players. Notre Dame was winning football titles. Rockne and the Four Horsemen were famous. Earle Sande was booting home winners.

The golden era they call it. And it was. Let's look today. Bobby Jones is playing in one tournament per year, the Masters, at Augusta over the course he designed. He's still one of the world's great but out of competition. Dempsey is managing a restaurant and refereeing fights and wrestling matches. Sande is a trainer. Babe Ruth has just been traded to the Boston Braves after 21 years with the Yankees and hopes to be able to play in 100 games.

Yesterday was the anniversary of Knute Rockne's birthday and a wreath was placed on the marker which marks the site of the fatal airplane plunge on the gloomy morning of March 31, 1931; a plunge which took Rockne and seven others to death. Notre Dame is marching back toward the heights again under one of Rockne's players.

Only Tilden goes on. He perhaps still is the second best tennis player in the world, certainly one of the three best. And that at 42.

One wonders if sport ever again will see men like these. They had everything, color, ability, temperament and the competitive instinct which carried them far above the herd in their respective fields.

Another Ruth? Another Jones? Another Tilden? Another Rockne? Another Dempsey? And if they do come will they all come in one smashing era?

A GOOD CUSTOM. It is an excellent custom, the one inaugurated by Notre Dame men to honor the memory of Knute Rockne each year on the anniversary of his birth.

Alumni all over the nation held dinners last night. There were at least 20 of them in various sections. One could have been arranged in Atlanta, with the coaches from North Carolina State, the University of Georgia, Auburn, Alabama and Kentucky joining in. It should be done next year.

The Notre Dame men who played for Rockne have a tradition which no other players have. To Rockne was given, more than to any other coach, to know the full measure of success and fame.

RUTH RECEIVES GREAT WELCOME AT BRAVE CAMP

Florida Folks Jam Station To See Babe in New Role.

By Alan Gould.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Babe Ruth received a record breaking welcome today upon his arrival at the training camp of the Boston Braves.

Never during the ten previous years Ruth has been coming here with the New York Yankees has St. Petersburg approached the reception it accorded his first appearance as a National leaguer. More than 3,000 men, women and children jammed the railroad station, cheering Ruth wildly and knocking many down in the rush to get a closeup of the perspiring but delighted veteran. No squad of ball players, let alone any individual, has ever been given so vociferous demonstration upon arrival at a Florida training camp.

WELL RECEIVED. The Babe's arrival was the climax of a series of impromptu receptions marking every stop of the train in Florida. At Wildwood a crowd of boys spotted the big fellow through a window and stamped aboard the train, causing several minutes' delay while they insisted on getting his autograph. The extraordinary interest manifest in Ruth's new venture as player, assistant manager and vice president of the Braves surprised but also stimulated the one-time home run king.

"I hope they will be willing to cheer me later on, when I get out there in uniform," chuckled the Babe, as he helped Mrs. Ruth through the crowd to greet Bill McKechnie, manager of the Boston club, and Hank Gowdy, veteran coach.

Bill and the Babe, boss and assistant boss under the "new deal," shook hands warmly. Both have already dispensed the slightest idea that there will be any friction or misunderstanding in the management of the club this year. As to next year—in the words of both—"let that take care of itself." To make it official, Ruth said to McKechnie:

"TICKLED TO PIECES."

"Bill, you know I'm tickled to pieces to be down here and to join you. Anything you say goes with me. I'll be ready to go to work for you tomorrow morning. The way I feel right now, I'm going to give the Braves some help."

Ruth promptly applied reports that he had any discussion whatever with Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Phillies, about a possible deal for Bobby Brown, one of the Braves' young right-handers.

"I haven't seen or talked with Wilson since I joined up with the Braves," said Ruth. "Besides I've got a lot to do with making any deals and to mention anything of the kind before I join the club. That kind of stuff is just a pipe dream."

Ruth's training program, starting tomorrow, probably will combine a brisk daily workout at Waterfront park, training grounds of the Braves, and a round of golf in the afternoon. His golf club, which he forgot in the rush of leaving New York Sunday are on the way.

CLOSE TO WEIGHT. "I'm within five or ten pounds of playing weight now," he said. "I'll get into the grade gradually. Barring accidents I think now I can play as much, if not more, than I did last year with the Yanks."

Ruth was 125 games last season. He needs 128 more to make a grand total of 2,600 for 22 seasons in the major leagues. To Cobb left a record of more than 3,000 games and Babe has no idea of challenging it.

WRIGHT RIDES ANOTHER TRIPLE

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP)—Putting together his fourth riding triple of the meeting and his second in as many days, Wayne Wright, veteran Idaho jockey, dominated the program as the final week of racing got under way at Hialeah Park today.

Wright got a break in the fifth when J. E. Smallman's Quickly was disqualified and G. Mitchell's Volta Maid, the odds-on choice, moved into first money. He then came back to take the featured sixth with W. A. Jones' Furber, one of the two in the field of eight not eligible for the Florida Derby, and wound up the day by winning the seventh with Mrs. M. Cofford's My Purchase.

Robert Watson, upon Quickly, was charged with deliberate foul riding and suspended for the remainder of the meeting. The case also was referred to the Florida state racing commission for such action as it sees fit to take.

With J. H. Louchheim's Morpuck, one of the favorites, for the Derby, scratched, Furber had M. L. Schwartz's Good Gamble as the chief contender. The latter, making his seasonal debut, broke alertly and quickly opened up several lengths advantage, running W. S. Wilmer's Night Serge into defeat.

Meanwhile Furber, winner of his previous races and held at nearly 4 to 1, was gradually swinging into stride. He shot around the field with a rush leaving the backstretch and wore down Good Gamble. At the finish he was a length in front, going away. H. W. Silver's Blackbird was third.

Philly Manager Has High Hopes

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(AP) Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Philadelphia, National league club, started his players off for training quarters down south today, with the promise to "make it hot for the rest of the league" if his pitchers produce.

DINNER TOURNEY AT WEST END

The West End Golf Club will hold another dinner tournament Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The two teams will be captained by Dr. T. E. Tolleson and A. J. Cochran.

The losing side pays for the dinner, of course. Pro Albert Jones also requests all members or ex-members who are not included in the tournament to call him at the club as pairings can be arranged.

Here are the pairings, with members of Tolleson's team named first: Pete Barnes and Hook Sander vs. Tommy Barnes and J. E. McConnell; C. D. Geary and Mel Clark vs. C. E. Bell and J. P. Tullin; J. D. Spinks and W. W. Burns vs. J. W. Simmons and M. C. Pittard; Marvin Hawkins and Joe Osborne vs. A. J. Cochran and J. M. Swicegood; Larry Conell and Luke Everett vs. Martin Hawkins and Joe Osborne; Dawson Ragdale and John O'Neill vs. Dr. Tolleson and Charles Edwards; A. W. Falkenberg and O. J. Hule vs. L. W. Glenn Cunningham, Hornbostel Clash. NEW YORK, March 4.—(UP)—One of the best races of the current indoor track and field season was arranged today when Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, greatest mile runner the world has ever known, and Charles Hornbostel, tireless Hoosier middle distance star, agreed to meet in the 1,000-yard event of the Knight of Columbus games here March 16.

Each runner will compete in a double in the Casey game. Cunningham will run in the mile in addition to the thousand. Hornbostel's first race of the night will be the classic Casey 600.

ATLANTA STAR ROUTS HIS FOE IN GREAT STYLE

Hall Unable to Touch 'Betsy' Game in Final Match.

GRANT MASTER.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 4.—(AP)—Bryan M. Grant, indefatigable court covered from Atlanta, sailed through the Bermuda singles tennis championship finals with the greatest of ease today, walloping J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., veteran, 6-0, 6-4.

In a manner of speaking, Grant backed into the championship. Hall was badly off form, repeatedly serving double faults and constantly sending what should have been easy returns into the net. The gallery got its only excitement from Grant's sensational recoveries.

After failing to win even a game in the first two sets, Hall finally got some of his strokes under control in the third set and made at least a semblance of a fight out of what had been a walkaway match for the little southerner. But even in this set, Grant easily was master of the situation and quickly polished off set and match before the New Jersey star really became dangerous.

All in all it was a disappointing day for the spectators. Miss Sylvia Henrotin, of France, walked into the women's single title when her opponent in the final round, Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., was forced to default. Mrs. Andrus suffered a sprained ankle. She suffered the injury yesterday when she jumped into a motorcar.

McDIARMID INJURED.

John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, Texas, suffered a badly injured nose in a cycling accident and was not in his best form in the mixed doubles final and a strong March wind. Mrs. John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, won the title by defeating Miss. Henrotin and Eugene McCalliff, of Yonkers, N. Y., 6-4, 6-3.

Mrs. Andrus expects to be able to play in the women's doubles final tomorrow. She and Miss. Henrotin will team up against Jane Shap, of Pasadena, and Mrs. Van Ryn.

Pointers Lead National Field

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 4.—(AP)—Despite a generous portion of rain and a strong March wind, two young pointers, Spunky Creek Joann and Chimes' Mississippi Jack, went through three-hour heats of the national bird dog trial today. Field trials here today in championship style.

Claude Bond Appointed to Southern League Umpire Staff

ATLANTA BOY GIVEN OLD JOB OF JOHN QUINN

Change Is Only One Made by Martin; 7 Others Are Back.

By Jimmy Jones.

Claude Rogers Bond, Atlanta's popular young sandlot umpire, last night received the biggest thrill of a lifetime that totals only 20 years in this tempestuous old sphere.

It was the news that President John D. Martin had appointed him as a member of the 1935 Southern league staff, taking the place of Umpire Johnny Quinn, who will perform in the American league this year.

This is a distinct honor, not only to Mr. Bond, who has labored tirelessly to improve himself in his profession, but to the city of Atlanta, his home, where he has countless friends.

UNUSUAL HONOR. It is most unusual when an umpire jumps from the sandlots to Class A league like the Southern at his young age. In fact, the case has few parallels in baseball. Most of the umpires, like the ball players, begin in the D, C and B leagues and their promotion, if at all, is slow and gradual.

Judge Martin, in making the announcement, also stated seven of last year's staff would be returned for the coming season. They are: Harry S. (Steamboat) Johnson, Hadley (Buildup) Williams, H. T. (Buck) Campbell, W. M. (Bick) Campbell, Howard (Polly) McElroy, Eddie Ainsmith and Cecil B. Grigg.

Mr. Quinn, the departing member, was taken on the oriental tour by Connie Mack last fall and the lean Athletic manager liked his work so well that he recommended him for an American league job. He is to get it, according to reliable reports.

WORKED HARD. Mr. Bond, whom the boys sometimes call "Liberty" in the facetious spirit of the diamond, is going in to the Southern with plenty of experience. Umpiring has been his great obsession and no man ever worked so conscientiously at this generally thankless job as Claude would umpire anywhere and any time at the slightest provocation.

He would go out on the mill lots and into the country and work in the avian sun for a pittance—just to keep his hand in and learn what he could about it.

They say that perseverance has its reward and Mr. Bond certainly is an example of the axiom.

He started first to working games on city sandlots, then began handling some of the faster tempo games and later some of the Cracker exhibitions. The late Uncle Wilbert Robinson was one of the first to notice Bond's work and to commend it. In the spring of 1933, he helped Bill Brennan here and last spring he served as Bick Campbell's partner in the spring games.

GOT A BREAK. During the '33 season he got a break. Umpire McElroy's mother died and Umpire Quinn—the man whose place he is taking—was called to work a regular Southern league game where with him in McElroy's absence.

Claude handled the bases with Quinn behind the plate and did a fine job. Again in 1934, the league needed a supply man when the inimitable "Steamboat" Johnson took a rest and Bond helped Eddie Ainsmith work the Atlanta-Nashville series here at the last of the season.

All this experience did him no harm whatever and good reports were turned in on the young man to Judge Martin. Friends also boosted him. His opportunity came with the vacancy caused by Quinn's departure and Martin remembered him.

"It's a great break for me and I reckon I'm about the happiest man in the world tonight," Bond said upon being informed of Martin's announcement.

WELL EQUIPPED. The baby member of the Southern staff is well qualified as to physique and temperament. He weighs 210 pounds, likes to work and loves the game. He officiated in 128 games, mostly sandlot, last year.

In addition to his umpiring activities, Bond also served as trainer of the Decatur High football team for two and one-half years and last year he acted in the same capacity for both Boys' High and Tech High. He is well known throughout the city, particularly in high school and sandlot circles, and all of his friends and acquaintances wish him the best of luck.

Earl Mann, Cracker vice president, was one of those who boosted Bond and recommended him to President Martin this winter.

Jimmy DeHart Passes; Once Coached Georgia

All-American at Pitt and Backfield Aid at Athens Succumbs After Operation.

By Ralph McGill.

Jimmy DeHart, whose sudden death yesterday shocked the football world, was backfield coach at the University of Georgia in 1920 and 1921. DeHart had recently been selected as football coach at Southwestern, to fill the place left vacant by the sudden death of Jimmy Haygood, who succumbed to a heart attack a few months ago. First word of DeHart's illness came in The Constitution of Monday morning, telling of a serious abdominal operation which left him in a critical condition. Death followed last night in a hospital at Winston-Salem, N. C.

DeHart was an All-American quarterback at Pittsburgh before the war. He played in 1915, 1916 and 1919. He was one of Pop Warner's favorite players when Pop was coaching at Pitt. He returned to Pitt after the war, having served in the aviation with headquarters at Palo Alto, California, during 1917 and 1918.

He came to the University of Georgia immediately after his graduation at Pitt and served as head coach at Pittsburg and served as aid to H. J. Stegeman for two seasons.

STEGEMAN SHOCKED. Stegeman expressed his sorrow last night when informed of DeHart's death. "He was a splendid man," said Stegeman, "and very popular over at Athens when he was there. He was a fiery football player with a great competitive spirit. It was this spirit which enabled him, a relatively small man, to become an All-American halfback. All of us here at Georgia who knew him are shocked to learn of his death. It is most unfortunate."

Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, who knew DeHart well, also expressed his extreme sorrow. "Jimmy was a great personality," said the head coach at Tech. "He was vital to all at all times. He knew a lot of football and was a good coach. I am deeply shocked to learn of his passing. All of us in the south were glad he was coming to Southwestern at Memphis. It is most unfortunate."

WENT TO W. & L. DeHart went to Washington and Lee as head coach after leaving Georgia. He was there for several seasons and then, when Duke University was constructed, went there as head coach. His last season saw him produce a great team there.

DeHart went back to W. & L. and was succeeded at Duke by Wallace Wade. DeHart invented a football game called "The Monday Morning Quarterback." Last season he did not coach but marketed his game. It was an immediate success. The government purchased thousands of sets for use in the CCC camps. It was a football game played on a board and called for considerable knowledge of the game.

When Jimmy Haygood, Southwestern's veteran coach, succumbed to a heart attack some months ago, DeHart applied for the position and obtained it.

He was a thorough gentleman, a great coach and a good coach. His many, many friends will miss him.

Death Claims Jimmy DeHart. WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., March 4.—(P)—Jimmy DeHart, widely known Southern football coach, died at 4:35 o'clock in City Memorial hospital, where he underwent an abdominal operation February 23.

DeHart recently had been chosen coach of Southern University, Memphis, Tenn. He formerly coached at Washington and Lee, University of Georgia and Duke University. He was an alumnus of the University of Pittsburgh.

Anderson Meets Petrel Players Coach Frank Anderson yesterday held the first baseball practice of the 1935 season. More than 30 men reported. The 30 consisted of freshman and varsity material.

Practice consisted mostly of warming up exercise and issuing uniforms to the letter men from last year, who are as follows: Bill Borman and Hoyt Farmer, catchers; Ed Copeland and Lawrence Wade, pitchers; Rusty Fisher, third baseman; Soup (Shine on Harvest) Moon, Willie Belle Robinson, Sully Sullivan, outfielders. Candidates from the freshman team of last year are: Lefty Johnson, first baseman; Stacy Rowell, Sid Snider, Skeet Stewart, second basemen; Art Casper and Kit Carson, shortstops; Ralph Bowen, outfielder. Pitchers coming up are Shannon, Night Club Brown, Red Clark.

FOUR BALL WINNERS. MIAMI, Fla., March 4.—(UP)—Charles Whitehead, South River, N. J., and Art Lynch, Mamaroneck, N. Y., today won the fourth annual Miami Biltmore four-ball golf tournament. The eastern team defeated S. C. Anderson, Chicago, and T. E. Price, Miami, one up in the 36-hole finals.

LUKE APPLING, MAUDIN WORK SIDE BY SIDE

Atlanta Boys Drill at Short and Third for White Sox.

By Norman Walker.

PASADENA, Cal., March 4.—(P)—Glenn Wright, veteran National league shortstop, went through a long workout with the White Sox today at first base and surprised Manager Jimmy Dykes by doing his throwing overhand.

Wright was handicapped most of last season by having to use an overhand or sidearm throw. An infield which may see much service this summer lined up for the long workout.

Marshall Maudin was at third, Luke Appling at short, Jack Hayes at second with Wright, Manager Dykes and Mule Haas, veteran outfielder, all taking a shot at first base.

"CLEANUP" SOUGHT. AVALON, Cal., March 4.—(P)—Charles Grimm, manager of the Chicago Cubs, kept a weather eye open today in an effort to learn just who is going to be the "cleanup" hitter this year.

Three heavy hitters, Lindstrom, Stanback and Demaree, are logical candidates for the job of batting fourth, with Lindstrom, because of experience, on the inside track. Stanback has ousted the veteran Frychaser, Cuyler, out of center field and Cuyler, leading Cub batsman last year, will have to fight it out with Demaree for a job in left field. Grimm announced.

THE GAME. FORT MYERS, Fla., March 4.—(P)—The Philadelphia Athletics' regulars and the Yankees battled nine innings to a 7-4 draw in their first game of the season today. The batters took liberties with all the pitchers, veterans and rookies alike.

Captain Jimmy Foxx caught the first six innings for the regulars, smashed a triple which would have been a homer if he wanted to run, and handled his young hurlers like an experienced catcher.

The regulars might have won had it not been for the 7th inning. Fausett, English and Newsome, assisted by Finney—which pulled off five double plays.

A LOVE FEAST. BRADENTON, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Branch Rickey, vice president of the Cardinals, and Dixie Dean, the club's star hurler, held a love feast today in a long batting drill.

Rickey told a luncheon club "Everything depends on Dixie. If the team gets Dean's fullest co-operation I see another pennant."

Charles Gelbert, out of baseball for two years as a result of a leg injury, continued to amaze the fans with his performance. Rickey offered to bet that the one-time star shortstop was "back in big league baseball to stay."

BROWNS DRILL. WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4.—(P)—The regular infield, with the single exception of Oscar Melillo at second, took the field today as the Browns returned to their three-hour daily grind.

Manager Hornsby displaced Irving Burns at first for a time, indicating he plans to keep him at that post if need arises. No more practice games are scheduled until next Sunday.

MIZE HITS HOMER. TAMPA, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Chalk up the Cincinnati Reds' first home run of 1935 to Billy Myers and Johnny Mize, rookie hopefuls.

The youngsters banded out their circuit drive in the season's first practice game, enabling the colts to tie the regulars, 3 to 3.

Jim Bottomley, with Mize threatening his job at first base, showed up for his first workout. Benjie Frey, pitcher, joined the ranks of the signed.

GEORGE TO CATCH. NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(P)—Bill Brenzel and Charlie George are scheduled to do the bulk of the catching in the Cleveland Indians' early exhibition games. Manager Walter Johnson intimated today.

Brenzel filled in a backstop gap late last season when Glenn Myatt was hurt and Frankie Pytkal became ill. George is a newcomer to the fold with two years' minor league experience.

LEIBER LEAVES. PHOENIX, Ariz., March 4.—(P)—Hank Leiber, hard-hitting young outfielder, left here today to join the New York Giants at their Miami (Fla.) spring training camp.

Leiber said he had not reached a definite agreement on salary. He expected a satisfactory compromise would be reached.

Leiber has kept in condition by hunting, playing basketball and taking calisthenics.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED. MIAMI, Fla., March 4.—(P)—Hialeah park stewards today suspended Jockey R. Watson for the balance of the meeting for "deliberate foul riding." The case was referred to the state racing commission. Watson was riding J. E. Smallman's Quickly. The race was awarded to G. McMillen's Volta Maid, which finished second.

PITCHING STAFF IS PEL WORRY, GILBERT SAYS

Andy Messenger, Former Cracker Only Regular Returning.

By Norman Walker.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(P)—Pitching—that's the question in considering whether the New Orleans Pelicans will repeat and win the Southern association baseball bunting for the third consecutive season.

"That's our main worry," Larry Gilbert, manager of the team that has finished out of the first division only twice in the past 20 years, said today.

Almost on the eve of the opening session of spring practice—preliminary work begins Wednesday—Gilbert is frankly worried about his hurling situation.

ONE REGULAR. "We've got some fine prospects but then Andy Messenger is the only regular who's returning, sure."

"You can say that if I'm not satisfied with the youngsters that in the next few days we'll get a flock of new pitching material down here pronto," Gilbert promised.

With the sensational flingers, Al Milnar and Denny Galehouse, who helped the Pelicans to their second straight pennant and second straight Dixie championship last season, in Cleveland uniforms this spring, and the veteran Fred Johnson requesting to be traded to the Texas league, Gilbert indeed has a sorely depleted pitching staff.

Messenger is the only regular flinger who is expected back. Frank Ragland was released and Clay Bryant was sold to the Chicago Cubs.

A bunch of promising looking rookies are ready to try to show Gilbert they merit regular pitching assignments.

Gilbert said one of the most likely looking was a husky, six-foot-three semi-pro pitcher from Atlanta, a boy by the name of Ernie Osborne. But Gilbert thinks he will have to go into the market and purchase a couple of pitchers to round out his mound staff.

OUTFIELD IS SET. The New Orleans outfield is virtually settled, with Eddie Rose, Jack Ward and Jim Gleason all back on the club. Pete Fleming, who has seen service with the Pelicans before and Roy Weatherly, who led the Evangeline league batters last season with a .346 mark, seem scheduled to fight it out for the reserve outfield job.

The infield, rates as probably the best in the league last year, has been ridden by graduated players. Ernie Holman, third baseman, went to San Antonio in the Texas league; Roy Hughes, shortstop, and Louis "Boyz" Berger, second baseman, are working out with Cleveland and seem destined to stick.

Harley Boss, whose bat was instrumental in lifting New Orleans to its pennant last year, is back to the club at mid-season, will be back at first base.

Entry Lists Now Open For Constitution Meet

Third Annual St. Patrick's Day Handicap Doubles Duckpin Tourney is Saturday Week.

By Jack Troy.

Entry lists are now open for The Constitution's third annual handicap doubles duckpin tournament, St. Patrick's Day fixture at John S. Bick's stadium in the Belle Isle garage.

St. Patrick's Day actually falls on Sunday this year and so The Constitution's tournament will be staged on Saturday afternoon and night, March 16.

For the past two years the competition has been confined strictly to men. And it was a record-breaking tournament. But there is to be a division for ladies this year. The ladies will have their own special five-game race, with gold medals going to the winning pair.

Gold medals, as per annual custom, will be awarded to the winning pair in the men's division.

George (Tubby) Small and Long John Conyers proved the long and the short of the 1933 tournament. They nosed out the flashy young team of George French and Cliff Dennis.

GREAT START. A dark horse team, Small and Conyers sent the first annual Constitution tournament off to a great start. Last year French and Dennis swept through a record-breaking field of 60 pairs to win with the great five-game total of 1,226.

The Constitution tournament, in the second annual staging, therefore established by virtue of the 60 entries, a new United States record.

Judging by increased interest in bowling this year, this record should be surpassed by a wide margin on the forthcoming St. Patrick's Day.

Sure and it's certain to be because the ladies are going to compete. There is no entry fee for the five-game event. Only the price of games is charged. For the convenience of entrants, the games may be rolled either in the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, or at night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

HANDICAPS. Handicaps in the men's division will be based on a scratch mark of 235. Competing teams will receive two-thirds the difference between their average and the scratch mark. The scratch mark for ladies is 195. They receive the same difference.

The only requirement for entry is that a bowler must have rolled 15 or more league games. Averages as of March 9 will be used as a basis of computing handicaps.

Entries are being received by Sheriff Ed Plant, vice president of the bowling and chairman of the ways and means committee.

Three Horses Die In Kentucky Fire LEXINGTON, Ky., March 4.—(UP)—Authorities investigated the possibility of incendiaryism today after fire destroyed three thoroughbred horses and caused thousands of dollars damage to two famous racing stables here within 12 hours.

Three horses burned to death and two others were injured in a fire at the stables of the Kentucky Association early today.

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP)—Zelke Bonura, hard-hitting first baseman for the Chicago White Sox, today settled his contract difficulties and prepared to join his teammates at Pasadena, Cal. Bonura, last of the White Sox holdouts, was reported to have demanded $10,000 as against an offer of $7,500 a year.

FRANK WADDEY SIGNS CONTRACT WITH LOOKOUTS

Memphis Boy, Former Tech Star, Returns to Ball.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(UP)

Frank Waddy, Memphis boy who led the Southern Association in batting in 1933, today announced he would return to professional baseball after a year's flogging in the business world.

Waddy, who won nation-wide honors as an end on the Georgia Tech Golden Tornado that conquered Stanford in the Rose Bowl in 1928, said he had signed a contract with the Chattanooga Lookouts and would leave tonight for the Lookouts' Panama City (Fla.) training camp.

The Memphis, returning yesterday from Akron, Ohio, where he had been in business the past year, said he had a flattering offer from another business firm under an arrangement which will not interfere with his ball playing. He said he would open an office in Memphis after next season.

"I'm glad to be back in baseball," he exuberated. "You may think it's the old ballboy, but it's the absolute truth when I tell you I'm in the best condition ever. I played in 75 ball games with the company team last year, and all winter I've been doing gym work and playing handball."

Waddy went with the Chicks as an outfielder after graduating from Georgia Tech in 1928. He went with the St. Louis Browns for awhile but an illness curtailed his major league chances then. With two months of the season gone in 1933, he finally landed with the Lookouts, hit his stride, and led the loop in batting.

Twenty Grand To Campaign In England NEW YORK, March 4.—(P)—Seeking success where other well-known American-bred horses have failed in recent years, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand probably will leave soon for a two-year invasion of the English turf.

Rated one of the greatest horses ever bred in this country, the big bay of the Greenette stable will be given a chance to match his speed and stamina against the leading handicap horses in England if Mrs. Whitney's plans are carried out.

At her Thomaston, Ga., farm, Mrs. Whitney told the Associated Press "she was considering suggestions that Twenty Grand be sent abroad but it would be two or three days before she could hear from her trainers and make a definite decision. Officials at her Lexington, Ky., farm said, however, that the colt would be shipped Friday."

Gus Suhr Ordered To Join Buc Club

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., March 4.—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates are taking steps about their only holdout, the lank infielder Gus Suhr.

President William Benavenger and Manager Pie Traynor went into a huddle and decided Suhr's presence in San Bernardino is imperative and sent a message to that effect to Suhr's home in San Francisco.

Although he regrets he didn't have time to make a personal visit to Suhr, Traynor believes the veteran infielder eventually will sign up. Even though Gus doesn't like terms in the contract offered him he will at least come around to the camp for a conference, Traynor thinks.

By FRANK MacMILLAN.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(P)—

Stocks and corporate bonds were generally neglected today, while the financial district stood and watched the gyrations of the pound sterling in the foreign exchange markets.

United States government obligations escaped the prevailing apathy in securities dealings as Secretary Mor-ganthau's announcement of plans for the forthcoming financing day revealed the refunding would be done at the lowest interest rates for long-term bonds on record. A $300,000,000 savings for the government was seen as a result of the coupon rate of 3.5

per cent. A number of listed federal securities made new highs for a year or more.

Pound Breaks.

The pound sterling broke nearly 5 cents against the dollar in local exchange trading as uneasy short-term

speculation to flow out of London, but in late dealing a sharp rebound occurred as short covering made itself felt. The final rate was less than a cent lower than Saturday's close. Gold monies lifted substantially.

Shares and corporation loans drifting idly lower, while some of the leading staples gave ground as the pound declined. Wheat ended 1-2 to 1-1/8 cents a bushel down, and corn lost

1-2 to 1-1/2 cents. Cotton was off 30 to 40 cents a bale.

Stock transactions were held to a minimum by most traders. Turnover aggregated only 422,930 shares. The associated Foreign exchange at 600 stocks declined 3 of a point to 37.5.

Evidence that the rate of steel operations might be stabilizing after several weeks of declining tendencies brought no following into the ferrous metal shares. The Steel Institute reported a lift in the operating rate of 3 of a point at 90 per cent of capacity. Most stocks in the group were fractionally reactionary.

Not Much Change.

A scattering of improved earnings reports appeared, including the 1934

figures for B. F. Goodrich and Adams-

Millis, but neither stock changed much in value during the session.

Some of the foreign exchange turned soft following the sharp rally in the pound sterling in late trading.

United States Smelting received 3 points to 100 1/2, while Jones &

Lambert rose 1/2 point to 40 1/2, as around 1-1/2 points, or as appeared in

Cerro de Pasco at 43 1/4. American

Smelting at 35 1/2, Dome at 39 3/4, and McIntyre Foreign at 40 1/2.

Dips in most of the leaders in the share market were confined to fractions, including Allied Chemical at 17 1/2, Bethlehem at 27 1/2, General

Electric at 56, United States Steel at 32 1/4,

Montgomery Ward at 24 3/4, General

Motors at 26 5/8, Santa Fe at 41, and Union Pacific at 93 3/4.
